'Little People' Get Producing Oil Well

85 Edmontonians Get Thrill As Their Gamble Pays Off

By Stanley Burke
Bulletin Staff Writer

For 85 of Edmonton's so-called "little people" it was a great day for singing a song as Yeske—their own oil well—came into production.

There was celebrating in offices and homes, among welders, clerks and stenographers around the city and down near the Leduc-Woodbend ferry crossing where Yeske was talking a language the "little fellows" with courage to gamble could now understand.

"It looks exceptionally good, the equal of any in the field" said Spence Kostnyuk of the Canadian Drilling Company, drilling contractors.

Preliminary estimate put production at about 1500 barrels a day, possibly higher. Production from the D-3 in the Leduc field varies from about 350 to 1,500 barrels a day.

It is believed to be the first time an oil well has been brought into production in northern Alberta entirely financed by local capital—financed by small businessmen, by laboring men, by shopkeepers, and office girls.

This is also a personal success story. It is the story of a man who came to Alberta 23 years ago with $5 in his pockets and not a word of English in his vocabulary.

This man was Sam Yeske, a Romanian immigrant, who fled from the Communists who were waging a bloody revolution in his native Bessarabia. It had shattered the widespread industrial holdings of his family. He determined that he would re-build his fortunes in the Land of Opportunity.

Faith Is Justified

Yesterday his faith in Canada was fulfilled and the Romanian immigrant made one more step up the ladder of success as Yeske No. 1 came into production.

Smiles of delight shone from the frosty faces of two dozen shareholders and their families who went out to their well yesterday afternoon to watch it come into production and usher them into ranks of the oil capitalists.

Yeske No. 1 is located on the north side of the Saskatchewan river approximately two miles east of the Leduc-Woodbend ferry crossing, or, on the land maps, as legal subdivision 16, section 35, township 50, range 26 west of the fourth.

Well shows promise of being one of the best in the Leduc field. It has an unusually deep pay-zone of 175 feet and high gas pressure. The D3 was contacted at 4,937 feet.

Cost of the well was $125,000.

Consulting engineers and geologists were Murray, Mitchell and Gray Ltd.

Edmonton residents, business men in particular, come in for severe criticism yesterday from oilman Yeske.

"Edmonton business men seem to be dead," he said. "The whole city is dead. Here they are in the middle of all this oil and they are letting the Americans make all the money. I don't know what is wrong with them." They could do the same thing as we did with no difficulty."

The Romanian immigrant has shown a far different spirit since he arrived in Hanna, Alberta, back in 1927 with $5 in his pocket.

In 1936 he came to Edmonton and borrowed money to start Prairie Cereals Ltd. By hard work and diligent management he made his company flourish.

'Poor Man's' Syndicate

Then, in 1947, when the oil boom started in Leduc, he saw opportunity waiting. He well knew the money that could be made from oil from his knowledge of the Pioest fields of his native Romania.

The Romanian immigrant immediately began following oil developments, soon began buying oil royalties from farmers. Then, last year, he formed the "little man's co-operative" and started to bid for oil properties.

It is expected the well will pay investors at the rate of $100 per month per one percent of investment. A one per cent investment cost $2,000.

The money was raised from a strange assortment of hopeful investors who varied all the way from moderately well-to-do business men to clerks and laborers who put as little as $250 in the venture.

First bids were unsuccessful. Then, last November, their bid on the Leduc property was accepted. They immediately began preliminary surveys and during the winter started drilling operations.

Cold weather hampered operations and progress was slow. Pessimists began to say they had put their money into a dry hole. But yesterday the courage and confidence of the "little men" was rewarded.

"Anyone could have done it," commented Mr. Yeske. "This is still the land of opportunity if people will only realize it."

SUFFERING from bone ailment that has kept him in casts most of his life, Glen Rundle, 10, of 10812 93 street, is type of boy who will be helped by the Edmonton Bulletin's Golden Gloves Boxing Tournament at the Stock Pavilion Feb. 23-24. Proceeds of tourney will go to Associated Canadian Travellers' Northern Alberta Crippled Children's Fund.

Bulletin's Golden Gloves To Aid Crippled Kiddies

A year ago, the future of Dennis Vandle, a nine-year-old Legal district farm boy, looked bleak.

A fire damaged his leg muscles. It appeared he was doomed to spend the rest of his life on crutches.

Today, Dennis can run and play, as agile as any of his playmates.

That, in brief, is the type of story with a happy ending the Edmonton Bulletin is planning to write with its 1950 Golden Gloves Boxing Tournament at the Stock Pavilion Feb. 23-24.

The Bulletin will turn over all proceeds of the tournament to the Association Canadian Travellers' Northern Alberta Crippled Children's Fund, to be used to help just such boys as Dennis.

Since 1947 it has collected more than $30,000 and helped 35 youngsters to walk again.

East Getting That Cold From West

Food, Fuel Moves Into Vancouver As Rail Lines Cleared

While western Canadians unravelled themselves from blizzard blankets, the east today had colder weather that dispelled thoughts of shedding winter garments.

Today's weather forecast was for lower temperatures generally in the east and mostly unchanged in the west. For the first time in days the weatherman noted that the temperature now is normal for this time of the year.

It dropped to 13 degrees from a high of 53 at Montreal yesterday, and sunny, cold weather was promised for today, turning milder on Sunday with snow in the eastern Ontario and Quebec regions. Milder weather, with rain, was the prospect for Ontario.

B.C. RECOVERING

Conditions were rapidly returning to normal in British Columbia.

Food and fuel moved into Vancouver in a jerky flow as trains began to push through the wall of snow that has virtually isolated the coast city since a blizzard last Monday.

Canadian Pacific Railway officials said lines are open to the east and three passenger and "several" freight trains are scheduled to arrive there today.

Canadian National Railway, still balked by drifts in the Fraser canyon area, 125 miles east of Vancouver, moved 38 cars of coal and perishable food over CPR lines to Vancouver last night.

Continued cold and clear weather is stalling any threat of floods from

Forty Planes Seek Missing Aircraft

Canadian and U.S. Searchers Find No Trace to Date

Airmen of two nations flew over rugged northern mountains and marshlands today, searching for a U.S. air force transport plane missing with 44 persons aboard.

Taking off from bases scattered in the Yukon and Northwest Territories, 40 planes fanned out over the area between Snag, Y.T., and Watson Lake, Y.T., in "Operation Mike." The armada was made up of one-third Canadian planes and two-thirds American.

Object of their search was a C-54 which last was reported over Snag, 1,500 miles northwest of here, Thursday, bound for Edmonton and Great Falls, Montana, with a mother and child, 34 military personnel and eight crew members.

The search which yesterday covered 2,700 square miles in the Watson Lake area, 520 airmiles east of Snag was expanded today to cover the air route from Snag to Whitehorse, Y.T., a distance of 300 miles, and from Watson Lake to Nelson, B.C., about 250 airmiles.

Operation mike has been concentrated between Snag and Watson because the plane failed to report at Whitehorse on its southern flight after passing over Snag safely. Search officials believe that if it crashed it will be in the area being covered today.

(Air Force officials here doubted that a four-engined plane which reportedly crashed south of Kormak, Ont., had any connection with the missing C-54 hunted in the north. They doubted that it would have strayed so far off course but admitted that it would have enough gasoline to reach that far.)

Czechs Claim Canucks Spy

PRAGUE, Jan. 28. — (AP) — Czechoslovakia officially charged today that two Canadian legation employes expelled last week had been engaged in espionage against this country.

It also said through the official Czech news agency that the two men, Sgt. Reginald Danko of Toronto and Lauder, Man., and J. G. Vanier of Rochebaucourt, Que., members of the legation's air attache, also had been guilty of "low and inimical provocations against our authorities."

The Czechs said the pair had "misused the hospitality" given by Czechoslovakia by abusing several state security policemen.

The Canadian external affairs department said in a statement last Saturday that Danko and Vanier had been ousted on "baseless accusations" that fit into a pattern of Iron Curtain conduct towards western representatives.

Durable Bernt Balchen Directing North Search

Col. Bernt Balchen, United States Air Force officer directing the international search for the missing Alaskan C-54, is one of aviation's most durable heroes.

A Norwegian, Balchen first came to prominence 25 years ago during the Arctic air search for explorer Roald Amundsen. Admiral Richard E. Byrd was so impressed by the young Norwegian flying officer that he brought him to the United States in 1926.

Out of their partnership came a trans-Atlantic flight and the air conquest of the south pole.

Hardly a year has passed since then without a new Balchen exploit, and his biography is almost the story of Arctic flying. Now 50, Balchen became an American citizen in 1931. A special privilege let him count two years in the Antarctic's "Little America" as part of his residence qualification.

He flew for the Finns in their war with Russia, and then served with the United States air force after Pearl Harbor. He rescued scores of lost fliers in Greenland, evacuated 3,000 internees from Sweden with a secret airline, and landed arms for the Danish underground.

Last year he flew non-stop from Anchorage to Oslo and non-stop from Oslo to New York.

This is not as silly as it sounds.

When whalers make a catch they leave the captured whale floating on surface while they hunt another. Sometimes when they come back to pick up number one whale, whalers find ocean currents have carried it away.

Now a British firm is making small radio sets which will be fitted to carcasses of whales after they are harpooned. The sets will send out a continuous signal which can be picked up by a whaler's radio equipment. What next?

Two British Ships Hit By Shells

HONG KONG, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Two British merchant ships were reported to have been shelled by Chinese Communist shore batteries near the southeast China port of Amoy this week.

The small British coaster Cloverlock reported she was shelled and hit several times 17 miles off Amoy. Casualties if any and extent of damage were not given.

Earlier, the 3,560-ton freighter Wingsang reported to its owners that it had been fired upon in the same general area. No damage was reported.

One of the earliest Chinese empires was founded in 2,700 B.C. by Huang-Ti.

Search extended to within 45 miles of Edmonton last night after school children reported seeing low flying plane previous night. Flying services of two nations have flung resources into hunt.

Widespread Hunt Underway For Missing Plane in North

Ottawa at 7:34 a.m. for Edmonton and has not reported to any transport stations en route.

(It was one of 10 planes which took off from Rockliffe to assist in the search for a missing plane in the Yukon.)

Among the many reports reaching operations bases were those of ground signal flares sighted by U.S. air force pilot and unconfirmed report of an explosion and billows of smoke.

NOTHING SIGHTED

Almost 30 planes flew under the flickering aurora borealis last night but RCAF Wing Commander J. M. Sutherland said "nothing was seen resembling a downed plane."

The missing craft's last message said it had cleared the lofty St. Elias mountain range and was heading southeast towards the 10,000-foot peak of the northernmost Rockey Mountain range.

"If the plane crashed-landed and all aboard are alive, no one should suffer from cold or hunger," an air force spokesman said. The plane carried 800 pounds of emergency rations and Arctic survival gear.

Because bad weather washed out searches in the area of Snag and around Whitehorse, planes concentrated on the next probable area yesterday. They covered 2,700 square miles around Watson Lake, 220 miles east of Whitehorse but found no trace of the lost plane.

A report early today said the search was hampered slightly by bad weather. A preliminary search also was made along an air lane from Nelson, B.C., to Watson Lake, but without success.

BLIZZARDS IN AREA

Five United States air force B-17s and two RCAF aircraft will begin a more extensive search northwest and southeast of Watson Lake where air search still is possible.

Heavy blizzards rage over most of the area where the missing transport is lost. It is a rugged, sparsely-settled country where trappers' cabins, trading posts and Indian villages are few and far between.

Snag, where the plane was last reported is a famous cold spot, the mercury dipping often as low as 50 below zero. Dec. 6, 1948 it hit a record low of 67 below but an unseasonable mild spell sent the temperature to seven above today.

Royal Canadian Air Force searchers were checking reports of an explosion and billows of smoke at Minto, 90 miles south of Whitehorse. Airmen said the report was "absolutely without confirmation."

The RCAF also investigated a report that a large plane flew low over Vimy, Alta., 41 miles north of Edmonton, but found no confirmation.

The plane, which was based at El Paso, Tex., was last reported seen over Snag, Y.T., 200 miles northwest of Whtehorse. It was thought the plane might have followed the Alaskan highway.

Sutherland said a report of ground signal flares seen by a C-47 pilot prorbably could be traced to a truck convoy on the highway.

Hutterites Study Mexico Opportunity

'Must Be Prepared To Move,' Says One As Delegation Sent

LETHBRIDGE, Jan. 28.—(CP)—Alberta's 4,000 Hutterites today were reported to have sent a delegation of 20 representatives to Mexico to "investigate" possible acquisition of farmland there in the event the religious sect decides to leave Canada.

High-ranking Hutterite spokesmen here said the delegation represents all colonies of the sect in Alberta.

"Not one of the Hutterite colonies is thinking of leaving right now," they said. "But we want to have a good place picked out for a time of need. We want to be prepared."

Rev. John Wurz, generally recognized as the official spokesman and head of the Hutterites in the province, said he had been approached by a representative of the Mexican government this week. The representative outlined an offer from the Mexican agriculture department to the Hutterites.

The religious sect has been showing more interest in Mexico in the last two years.

Many of them have voiced threats that their colonies will leave Alberta unless restrictions against them expanding their colony land holdings are removed by the provincial government.

WANTED BY MEXICO

"The Mexican government wants the Hutterites to come there to improve raw land in Mexico," Dr. Wurz said. "We must be prepared and know of a good place to go in case we have to move like our forefathers did."

The size of the Mexican delegation is viewed as an indication of the importance being attached to the Hutterites' thoughts of leaving Alberta.

"If there is another war we may not be able to stay here," Dr. Wurz added. Hutterites refuse to bear arms, being pacifists and conscientious objectors.

LOTS OF MONEY

One youthful Hutterite, who preferred to remain unidentified for fear he would be "severely punished" by elders of the sect, said: "The main reason why most of our preachers are talking about moving away from Alberta is that the younger Hutterites are becoming too modern-minded and are getting too many ideas like other people living in the province.

"Our preachers say that this is evil and leads us into sin. They would like to go to a place where temptations of civilization would not be as great.

"But I'm sure that there will not be any mass movement. Every one of the colonies — there are more than 30 and most of them are in the south—has too much money tied up and would lose heavily by moving."

As warm air from Alaska pushed southward over the district, temperatures rose to a high of two above by 12:30 yesterday afternoon. But winds suddenly shifted to northwest, returning the frigid air to Edmonton region. Mercury fell to an overnight low of 23 below at 5 o'clock this morning.

Most of the prairies are still gripped in the extended cold spell, while temperatures range far above zero in the Yukon and Alaska. Aishihik in the Yukon recorded a high yesterday of 24 above, while Snag, Canada's usual cold spot, recorded 19 above.

Bergman Quits Films; Is Tired, Says Lover

Exclusive to the Bulletin

ROME, Jan. 28—(BUP)—Italian film director Roberto Rossellini told reporters last night that Ingrid Bergman had quit the screen for good but he declined to answer any questions concerning their personal relationships.

He said he "didn't know" if Miss Bergman is expecting a child soon.

He couldn't answer when asked when they would be married.

"I will answer any questions about my work," Rossellini said.

"But when you ask me something personal, I will tell you that I do not know and cannot answer."

OUT OF FILMS

He was emphatic on one point, that Miss Bergman, who has been living in seclusion in Rome since completion of "Stromboli," has quit the screen for good.

"She is retired," Rossellini said. "That is clear. She is tired. She is not going to make any more films. Never."

He said it was "terrible" for Miss Bergman to work "under the conditions she has faced."

"NOT STRONG"

He said he was "very content" about Miss Bergman's retirement.

"It means we can have a little peace," he said.

Asked when Miss Bergman would obtain her Mexican divorce, he said: "I don't know. I only read about it today in the newspapers. I know nothing about it."

He said he didn't know if Miss Bergman was in Rome, didn't know how she passed her time.

"I don't know these things," he said. "She is wherever she is. I am working."

A Swedish correspondent pressed him on the matter of Miss Bergman being tired, because "Swedish women are very strong."

"I don't think so," Rossellini replied.

Philharmonic In Triumph With Concert

More and more, the Edmonton Philharmonic Orchestra is becoming an important part of the city's cultural activities.

That was evident last night, at the orchestra's second concert of the season.

It will be even more evident at the next concert in March, when the Philharmonic will play two compositions by local musicians: "May Day Suite" by Vernon Barford, and "Sketches From The Rocky Mountains Suite," by Bob McMullin.

Concerning last night's concert, the Philharmonic orchestra illustrated how an organization of its kind can provide both enjoyment for the audience and an opportunity for local musicians to put before the public the results of their years of practice.

MAKES CITY DEBUT

Mezzo soprano Diana Majorowa made her first appearance with full orchestra. Her voice has a lot of good qualities, and her singing proved popular judging from enthusiastic audience applause.

Madame Majorowa sang "My Heart At Thy Sweet Voice" from Saint-Saens' opera "Samson and Delilah," "Habanera" from Bizet's "Carmen," and a Ukrainian folk song for an encore.

Violinist Walter Holowach was featured in Saint-Saens' "Danse Macabre," the dance of death tone picture which was one of the best numbers the orchestra played last night.

The audience heard a composition which, I am told, has never been played before in Edmonton. It was Vivaldi's "Sonata No. 5 for 'cello and string orchestra." 'Cellist William Kirk made his debut as soloist.

IMPROVING STEADILY

Other numbers the orchestra played were Beethoven's Overture to "Egmont"; Mendelssohn's Symphony in A, the "Italian"; Three Dances from Edward German's "Nell Gwynn"; Haydn's Largo Cantabile, from "String Quartet, Op. 9, No. 5"; Strauss' "Perpetuum Mobile"; Wallace's Overture to "Maritana."

The orchestra has its good points and, of course, its bad ones, but it is improving all the time.

Certainly its future looks bright, and the fact that the audience was several hundred larger than at the first concert is a good omen.

Million Stitches In Carpet Made By Queen Mary

LONDON, Jan. 28—(CP)—Negotiations are "already going on" in Canada to purchase Queen Mary's carpet, the Evening News reported today.

The 82-year-old Queen Mother is putting the finishing touches on the 1,000,000-stitch carpet which she decided to sell to bring dollars to Britain. She started the carpet, 10 feet two inches by six feet 9½ inches, in 1941.

"It is thought that Canada will make every effort to outbid the United States," the newspaper said.

The Evening News speculated the carpet would bring more than $1,000,000 to Britain.

Divorce Paper Blames Doctor

By ROBERT ZIMMERMAN
Exclusive to The Bulletin

JUAREZ, Mexico, Jan. 28—(BUP)—Ingrid Bergman, suing for a Mexican divorce so she can marry her Italian sweetheart, will charge that her husband made her work too hard, attorney William A. Cocke said today.

Cocke, an El Paso, Tex., lawyer who filed the actress' suit here, said Miss Bergman would charge her husband, Dr. Peter Lindstrom, with cruelty.

The petition charges, in part, that Lindstrom "forced her to make pictures when she didn't want to."

"As a result," Cocke said, "she was working all the time and got no rest."

If Lindstrom does not contest the suit, Miss Bergman could shed him in time to marry Italian film director Roberto Rossellini shortly after St. Valentine's Day.

Lindstrom was in Hollywood and wouldn't say whether he planned to come here to fight the divorce. He once flew to Rome in an attempt to break up Miss Bergman's romance with Rossellini.

22 Top Jobs in Canada Begging; Average $7,270

By Brian O'Leary
Exclusive to the Bulletin

OTTAWA, Jan. 28.—(BUP)—Some 22 top-ranking government posts, tagged with salaries totalling almost $160,000, were vacant today. Qualifications for some were rigid and exacting.

For others, however, qualifications ranged merely from the savoir faire of tea cup balancing and a knowledge of Russian, to owning a pair of striped pants and being a good Liberal.

Any Canadian was eligible for any one of these top posts.

However, the government had absolutely no intention of inserting ads in the local papers to get their men. It would just continue to shop around until the right ones turned up.

Here briefly was what the government was looking for:

One cabinet minister, at $18,000 a year, to head the Mines and Technical Surveys Department. This was presently being done by Revenue Minister James McCann, in an acting capacity.

However, you have to be a Liberal MP to get this job.

One puisne judge, for the Exchequer Court of Canada. Again a knowledge of law would help one grab off this $12,000 per annum job.

One commissioner for the Combines Investigation Act. This $12,000 per annum job had perhaps the toughest qualifications to meet. They were a good knowledge of law and economics, as well as an ability to smell out a combine.

In the striped pants and pink tea league, more politely referred to as the diplomatic corps, the government needed one ambassador and three ministers to represent Canada abroad.

The ambassador was for Russia. Qualifications called for an immunity to cold weather, Communist propaganda, and the cold war. A command of Russian would also help. The salary tagged with this job was $10,000 per annum, plus expenses.

Three ministers were needed as well, one each for Poland, Czechoslovakia, and Switzerland. With the exception of the last named, the qualifications were the same for the job in Moscow. Salaries ranged around $9,000 per annum, plus expenses.

There were four other posts, which, while not vacant, were presently being filled by diplomats doing double duty. The Canadian legations in Luxembourg, Finland, Iceland, and Bonn, Western Germany, were being headed by Canadian diplomats in neighboring countries.

The government also has 10 vacancies in the senate. Qualifications and duties are quite simple, which perhaps explained why the government had such a long waiting list for these ones.

However, if you have been a good Liberal, know how to speak either French or English, and were willing to visit Ottawa at least once every two years, you might as well apply.

The 10 vacancies for these $6,000 per annum jobs were distributed as follows: Newfoundland, three; two each for Ontario and Nova Scotia; and one each for Prince Edward Island, British Columbia and New Brunswick.

And finally, the government needed about five parliamentary assistants for several cabinet ministers. The sole qualification was that you be a Liberal member of parliament. The salary attached was $4,000 on top of the annual $6,000 paid to federal MP's.

Movie Heads Trying To Ignore Television

By Patricia Clary
Exclusive to the Bulletin

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 28.—(BUP)—A veteran of the movies-vs-radio fight said today the movies-vs-television fight is shaping up in a familiar pattern.

Hollywood is hiding its head in the sand and hoping TV will go away quietly.

Radio didn't, Dick Powell said, and television won't either. He said it won't be long before studios are climbing on the bandwagon with TV programs of their own.

Movie stars have the same locks in their contracts to keep them off television that they once had to keep them off radio.

Movie magnates are hurling the insults they flung at the wireless 20 years ago.

"Television could be a superb medium for advertising and publicizing the Hollywood product," Barney Balaban of Paramount says.

"Just another way to sell soap, cigarettes or madman Muntz," snorts Gradwell Sears of United Artists.

Moviemakers in the early 30's didn't think radio was here to stay either, Powell said. And they did their darndest to see that it didn't.

"I used to get $3,000 a week from Warner Brothers," he recalled, "for not being on the radio." He had been getting $1,200 for being on.

Eventually Warner Bros. decided radio was going to last and jumped in all the way with an all-star show of its own. Powell said movies are bound to come to the same conclusions about TV.

"And that's the only way you'll ever see movie stars on television, on programs the studios put on," he said. "They're scared of what they'll look like otherwise."

Farmers' Position Is Best in History

Ure Says Over $100,000,000 Paid Off Alberta Farms in 15 Years

CALGARY, Jan. 28.—(CP)—Prospects look pretty good for Alberta farmers in 1950, Agriculture Minister David Ure yesterday told Calgary Board of Trade.

Indications are, he said, that wheat acreage will be somewhat less than last year and the coarse grain acreage a little higher.

FEWER POULTRY

"I think we can expect the number of poultry and hogs to be somewhat lower than we had in 1949 and I think the beef picture will be about the same," said the minister.

The financial position of the farmer was better now than it had probably ever been before.

Mr. Ure said he did not think anyone would be justified in feeling that prices the Alberta farmer is receiving for his produce are out of line with the general economic conditions.

In the main, farmers were not yet receiving their fair share of the national income.

PAY OFF $105,000,000

In 1931 Alberta farmers had owed in excess of $108,000,000 on real estate covering 38,600 farms.

By 1946 this had been cut to $3,000,000 on 22,000 farms.

Since 1946, which was the last year for which he had complete figures, the position had improved considerably.

Speaking about markets, Mr. Ure said there are indications the domestic demand for agricultural produce in 1950 is going to be good despite the apparently climbing level of unemployment.

The British market was still the best for exportable surpluses.

"It does not make sense," he declared, "to say that we have lost the British markets and cannot recover a favorable proportion of them."

Few Convicts Pass Grade 8

OTTAWA, Jan. 28. — (CP)— Eighty-two per cent of the inmates of Canada's penitentiaries are persons who did not get beyond elementary school.

There are currently 4,300 prisoners in penitentiaries across the country and 40 per cent are under 25 years while 20 per cent are 20 or under.

Joseph McCulley, deputy commissioner of penitentiaries, said: "Canada's criminal problem is very much a problem of youth and therefore a problem of education."

He said the average school experience of penitentiary prisoners was between grade 5 and 6. More than 90 per cent of the inmates are native-born Canadians.

Not the Mother Country?

If it were not darkly tragic, it would be hilariously funny to hear the Canadian state department announcing to other Commonwealth countries that she will never again claim priority in Commonwealth affairs as "senior dominion" because she no longer accepts the theory that she is "eldest daughter of a mother country."

This solemn pronunciamento is in line with what the Rt. Hon. Ernest Bevin said in Ottawa last year when he insisted that Britain is no longer a "mother country."

It is interesting to see the politicians thus shaking their little fists at the facts of life. And while it may be true that, under the Socialists, Britain has graduated into a sterile spinsterhood, there seems to be no real reason why Canada should feel it necessary to round out the nonsense by proclaiming that she was found under a cabbage leaf.

We call it nonsense because, while nations do grow up and go their own way like human prototypes, not even a government hysterically intent upon establishing its adulthood can pass a law to alter the inalterable facts of procreation and birth.

This test tube mentality, now prevalent in Ottawa, ignores a set of circumstances which we always thought were inescapable.

We had looked to Britain as our mother because she gave us freely her magnificent conception of law and equity, her devotion to freedom and justice, a tremendous literary and artistic inheritance, her money to develop our resources and, for a long time, a wise and kindly colonial government.

We looked to Britain as our mother because we were of her blood and lived in her traditions.

But the new passion for equality, which exists nowhere else in nature, has been too much for us. We must assert our nationhood. We must spit in Britain's eye.

For, like Topsy, we had no mother. We "jist growed."

Defence Preparations Inadequate

Disclosure by Major-General G. B. Howard of Montreal that it would require a full 18 months to convert Canada's peacetime economy into an effective wartime economy is bound to cause unrest that will demand steps to take up some of that slack.

Major-General Howard, who is general manager of the Canadian Industrial Preparedness Association, says it would take six months to get into shell production while conversion for the manufacture of uniforms and boots could be accomplished overnight.

But the overall conversion to war materials, he declares, would require a whole year and a half.

He admits that nothing has yet been done in regard to the mobilization of food, transportation or communication.

While few Canadians have entertained any very definite notions about the length of time it would require to get into full war production, this estimate of 18 months will come as something of a shock to most om them.

For while few confidently expect war, all are apprehensive of war. And all know that the best way to avoid war is to be completely prepared for it .

The successive lessons of 1938 and 1939 teach very harshly and conclusively that unpreparedness is an invitation to greedy and lawless powers.

Canada has also learned that armed strength is not the sum total of preparedness and that production and distribution are of the same importance as trained men.

One reads with something like astonishment, then, of this lag between peace production and possible war production revealed by Major-General Howard.

It does not afford adequate security for Canada.

The Resistance of Man to Christ

There is a surprising passage in the eighth chapter of St. Matthew's Gospel where the apostle records how Jesus, having stilled the waves in the Sea of Galilee, sailed on with His followers until he came to the country of the Gergesenes on the other side.

In that place He came across certain persons possessed of devils and He commanded the devils to come out of them and enter into a herd of swine. Whereupon the swine dashed down into the sea and were drowned.

Those who had been herding the swine ran into the city and reported what they had seen. And the whole city came out and begged Christ to go away.

"And behold, the whole city came out to meet Jesus; and when they saw Him, they besought Him that He would depart out of their coasts."

One would have thought there would have been a general rejoicing over the healing of those demented persons who had been living wretchedly in the rock tombs. One would have thought that a Visitor possessing such benign powers would have been welcomed in the most cordial way.

But, instead, they asked Him to go away.

It is a remarkable story and an even more remarkable picture of men, not only as they were in that day, but as they are in this day.

For the most amazing thing about the good news brought by Christ was the widesuread disinclination to listen to it.

The most astonishing feature of the astonishing three years of His earthly ministry was the resistance offered to the gifts He had to give to man.

Those who were desperate and sorrowing and uncomfortable received it. But the great complacent majority rejected it.

And the same attitude, of course, is easily discernible today. Those genial paganists, the humanists, who believe that the end of all life is to be a good fellow and follow the so-called golden rule, are willing to acknowledge that Jesus was a great moral teacher, but they are not willing to acknowledge that He is the Son of God and the Savior of the world.

It is hard to accept that fact because to accept it implies a change in habits of living and a change in habits of thought that are not easy to assume.

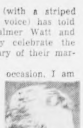
And just as the men in the country of the Gergesenes said, in effect, to Jesus: "You are doubtless a great man, but please don't disturb our habits of life and thought because we are very comfortable as we are," so do millions today evade or deliberately misunderstand the demands of the Christian Faith because those demands are too much for the complacence of their small hearts.

ODDS AND ENDS

By Harold L. Weir

Oceans of Good Wishes For the Balmer Watts

A little bird (with a striped tie and baritone voice) has told me that Dr. Balmer Watt and Mrs. Watt today celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage.



WEIR

Now this is an occasion, I am convinced, when there should be salutes of cannons and the sounding of trumpets because both the Watts have inexpressibly brightened and lightened and heartened this community and it is a reasonable assumption that had it not been for Balmer, Mrs. Balmer would not have acquired such a happy wit and such an unquenchable spirit and conversely had it not been for Mrs. Balmer, Balmer would have not developed into such a lovable sage.

Therefore, this day that looks back to their union half a century ago is a red letter day for Edmonton in far more than a sentimental sense and I know that the people who realize that fact run into the actual tens of thousands.

And so about all we can say (for I am one of them) is to hope that the Watts will take from our mouths the wish of many, many happy years.

Peculiar Interest

I must confess that I have a peculiar and personal interest in this happy event because at one time I was very close to Balmer Watt, so close indeed as to bear the proud title of his assistant.

It was back at the close of the first war and I was graduated from reporter in the higher courts, on the old Journal, to the dignity of acquiring the art of writing editorials under Balmer.

I do not propose to loose a floodtide of reminiscences.

But I remember, with a gratitude that I cannot begin to express, the kindliness, the patience and the infinite gentleness with which he undertook my instruction.

For Balmer Watt is above all things a gentle man. As long as I can remember him he has been a gentle man with a ripe and kindly wisdom and that God-given art of looking sympathetically into human hearts.

I fear I must have plagued him sadly for I was a graceless lout with much more ambition than sense. But he taught me something, I hope, and that brings me to a point in this discourse where Balmer, if he scans these lines, will mutter "et dona ferentes."

For as one of his literary progeny, a distinction I claim gladly and he will grant tremblingly, I maintain that he must assume a certain responsibility for me.

In this manner did Balmer Watt give hostages to fortune, which is a dreadful burden for a man to contemplate on his Golden Wedding Day.

There Is No Price

What I particularly want to say is that people like Balmer and Peggy Watt do something for a community that all the money on earth will not buy.

For in the heydey of these two (if it is conceivable that they have ever passed it) Edmonton was a tender suckling among cities, a very downy fledgling of a city, and upon its callow adolescence they impressed the stimulating marks of two powerful, amiable and gracious personalities.

For it is something of worth to have, in an immature community, at least two striving minds with the gift of vision, the restlessness of spiritual power and the grace to be unafraid.

I suppose, if everything were added up, if such things could be added up, Balmer and Peggy Watt contributed more to the individuality of Edmonton than almost any other pioneer pair.

And now that we have come to the place in Edmonton's development where we are thinking about spending huge sums of money to buy this and to buy that to make the city great, I wonder how often we look back and consider the stones in our foundation, like the Watts, whose influence will stand there forever and which is far, far beyond price.

Golden Wedding

There is a peculiar intrinsic beauty in the prospect of any two people who have completed half a century of time in the intimacy of married life.

The cynics may call it, if they like, an exhibition of endurance and the sentimentalists may call it a spectacle of love triumphant.

But to one who, like myself, attained literary puberty in the Watt tradition of tranquil moderation, the institution of the Golden Wedding is and should be the summum bonum of society.

For it reminds us of the key words in the ending of any good fairy tale which, of course, is the perfect picture of life.

Those key words are not, as is popularly imagined, "And so they were married".

The real key words are these: "And lived happily ever after".

Poor Bus Service

Editor, Bulletin—I have been a subscriber to your paper and from time to time have admired the straightforward way in which you have endeavored to help solve many of the problems facing the people of Edmonton.

The problem I am about to mention concerns one of the fastest growing sections of the city, which we feel has been badly neglected by the officials concerned.

In a recent news report, reference was made to the bus service on 106 street, at present running to 70 avenue. The statements made were such an exaggeration of the truth, it would seem that an attempt was being made to deliberately mislead the reading public.

This report stated that there are four buses running at 15 minute intervals on the Calgary Trail route, and that to add half a mile to the route would reduce the service to 20 minutes.

Actually, only one bus is used on this route. With the exception of two short periods through the week day there is a 30 minute service. During these periods, before nine and late in the afternoon, the bus gives 15 minute service. All day Saturday, it gives 20 minute service, and all day Sunday, 30 minute service.

By actual timing at full load periods it takes the bus barely seven minutes to make the trip from 70th ave. make the turn and be ready to start again. Thus, it can easily make the trip during the 15 minute period, during the 20 minute period there is a 6 minute waste of time and in every 30 minute period a full 15 minutes is wasted, during which time the bus is burning gas either at 70 avenue or Whyte Avenue.

In itself, this needless waste of time and money is bad enough, but to make it worse, fully 50% of the passengers are usually on the bus when it reaches 70 avenue and are forced to walk eight or nine blocks, in many cases, while the bus stands idle. When the temperature remains 40 degrees below zero for weeks at a time, as it has this winter, there is little wonder that patrons resent this needlessly poor service bitterly. Many times I've seen young mothers, with one child in her arms and a couple more hanging to her skirts, wearily get off the bus and begin the long walk home.

To improve the service in this area, the most practical route would be down 106 street to 63 avenue, from 63 avenue to 104 street to Whyte. In this way a much larger territory would be served and would still be well within the time limit with the exception of rush hours when one extra bus would have to be put on.

Apparently the city fathers are satisfied to accept the word of the commissioners without question and the commissioners are quite happy to let the ETS superintendent run the system to suit himself.

Recently, the commissioners agreed to extend a service a few blocks south on 109 street to a store where passengers could keep warm while waiting for the bus. When the matter came before Mr. Ferrier, however, the answer was a flat "No". Obviously, he didn't even feel his answer required an explanation.

In the case of the Allendale service, there has been two recent petitions from the residents south of 70 avenue, in addition to many previous petitions, requests and complaints. A delegation approaching the commissioners were given a flat refusal, who said among other things, that it did not interest them that children should have to walk two miles to Queen Alex school.

Must we continue to let city officials use these high handed tactics? Through the New Bulletin we have every hope of at last making our voices heard and getting some action for this long suffering community.

THE QUESTION:

Are Edmonton women glamorous?

THE ANSWERS:

Len Young, electrician, 10175 - 151 street: Not a chance. They're always about two years behind the times in fashion. They'd look a lot smarter if they wouldn't wear those low shoes all the time. They never seem to grow up and get out of 'teen fashions.

Sven Jensen, service station operator, 9624 - 95 street: Definitely. I think Edmonton women are wonderful. None in the world can compare with them as far as I can see — Calgary, in particular.

Alvin Pope, truck driver, U.S. Air Base: Edmonton women are definitely not glamorous. They are fairly well dressed, but they spoil their appearance by using too much make-up. And I don't like the way they do their hair — it's too fancy.

Vern A. Sadd, insurance company managing director, 10328 - 136 street: Yes. I have travelled a good deal and I have noticed that Edmonton women can hold their own anywhere. That includes the so-called style centres such as Montreal and Toronto.

Keith Smeltzer, insurance sales-Annamoe Apts: Edmonton women compare favorably with those I've seen elsewhere. With our greatly varied climate, the girls here certainly get a chance to show off a variety of seasonal styles.

Corporal Punishment

Editor, Bulletin—Almost all the men interviewed on hooliganism by your inquiring reporter agreed that crime is an unsolved problem in Edmonton, that a non-trade learning prison term is useless and that serious cases need a whipping.

Edmonton uses the rope for murder and the lash for the unspeakable crime. These are under control. Other criminals are treated better than the unemployed and are increasing their activities like contagious disease germs.

Last year the police and justices of the peace protected the public of Edmonton by recovering two-thirds of more than half a million dollars worth stolen and sentenced fifty-two a month to jail. Under the circumstances is it too much to ask that no prison term be considered complete without a test in useful knowledge studied while in custody?

Some of us who are sick and tired of the potential dangers and sadistic results of theft, assault, drunken or dangerous driving and dope peddling suggest that any man (no matter what his age may be, it is just as effective at fifty as at fifteen) found guilty on these charges be publicly sentenced to a seat strapping, the same to be given in private by a large and determined official appointed to that task.

Will those psychologists who object to even the mildest forms of the surgery of corporal punishment suggest any modern, moral medicine that will so readily cure, as Chief Justice Shepherd did, an epidemic of infectious crime?

Trivia

A man tried to train a fish to live out of water. The first day he kept the fish out of the bowl for one hour. The second day, for two hours. The third, for three hours, and so on until it would live in the air for a day at a time.

One day the man was walking over a bridge, while the fish, which had become fond of its master, followed close behind. But, oh, the pity of it, the fish slipped, fell off the bridge into the river, and was drowned.

Skid Row Types Are Sorry Lot

Skid Row has come to denote those human derelicts who never manage to get beyond the bottom of the heap.

We read stories about Skid Row, we hear lectures about these people, but if you want to see some of them, drop around to the police court some morning.

When court opens they march up from the cells below.

Some are groggy, some are dirty, some appear stupid and hopeless.

They know where to go. In fact they are letter perfect in the whole police-court routine.

They know the correct time for mumbling "guilty." They know, before the magistrate tells them, that it will be $20 and costs or 30 days.

Sometimes it will be more than that.

These patrons of the police courts are no ordinary citizens. These men have not just one card filled with recorded convictions. They built up quite a collection of those filing-cards that list their trips and their cash contributions.

Expenses Would Support Family

For some people a drink means the price of a bottle.

For these customers it almost invariably means an extra $20 or more.

The total that some pay in liquor fines would support a couple of youngsters. Some of these men have youngsters whom they do not support. They contribute hundreds of dollars in fines and when the money runs out they go to jail.

The treatment of alchoholism is a difficult matter at best.

Neither fines nor jail have ever cured them.

Some men are beyond cure. They simply clutter up the cells and crowd the rightful inmates.

This is one matter in which police magistrates are completely powerless.

If there was anything that could be done to keep these people out of the police courts, everyone would be happy.

Even the fact that thousands of dollars are collected in fines each year does not compensate for the work involved.

Those who cannot pay, clutter up the provincial jails and cause overcrowding.

Yet each morning the treadmill continues to turn until the list is completed and it will continue that way until some other solution is found.

Not Ordinary Criminal Types

One cannot help feeling that instead of this monotonous routine it might be far better if some different method could be used.

These men are not criminals in the ordinary sense.

Some might steal to get money for liquor, but the percentage is small.

Some of them cause trouble when they are drunk, but not too many of them.

They are simply a group of human delelicts and it does no good to treat them as criminals.

At one time it was suggested that some sort of farm might be secured where these men could be kept indefinitely. They need a place where they can be looked after.

Most of them could do work.

It is reasonable to believe that they could support themselves if their activities were supervised.

Such a farm would not need prison walls.

These men would not be very likely to escape.

With decent clothes and a chance to keep clean, fed and sheltered, they would obtain much more out of living than they do at present.

They might never change in the sense of becoming able to go out and look after themselves, but they might be very content to remain in such a refuge for the rest of their lives. If they did, it would be better than the present system.

You will notice I do not suggest this is a cure.

I don't believe a cure is possible.

You may question the advisability of establishing a special procedure for a particular type of law-breaker.

You can answer your own questions by calling at the police station and watching the morning parade. These people are different.

They require different treatment not because of any theories about penology but simply on the ground of human compassion.

Independent Finns Won't Obey Russia

There are various reasons why Finland happens to be the only country inside the Soviet orbit that has succeeded in remaining outside the iron curtain. Not the least of these is the downright courage and tough-mindedness of the Finnish people themselves.

Living directly under the guns of the Russians—the Soviet-held base at Parkkala, for instance, is within easy range of Helsinki, the Finnish capital—they know that they can have no independent foreign policy of their own.

This point the Kremlin rubbed in by forcing Finland to sign a treaty of alliance with Soviet Russia in 1948.

Earlier, as a result of a clear-eyed awareness that Russia would strongly object to such a move, Finland refrained from asking to join the Marshall Plan.

But in thier internal affairs, the Finns have doggedly insisted on being their own masters, even to the extent of forcing Communists and Communist followers out of the government.

Gesture of Independence

The latest demonstration of Finnish independence was the re-election of the aged Juho K. Paasikivi as president of the republic.

The balloting took place in an atmosphere of would-be intimidation. Only the Finns—the great majority of them—refused to be intimidated.

While the presidential campaign was still in its early stages, Moscow sent a sharp note to the Finnish government demanding that it turn over some 300 "war criminals" who had allegedly taken refuge in Finland.

This was followed by a drumfire of violent Soviet propaganda against the Fagerholm government and against Paasikivi personally.

Paasikivi, approaching the age of 80 and President of Finland since 1946, happens to be one of the few leading Finnish personalities who took no position against the Soviet Union during the two Russo-Finnish wars. He never has been anti-Soviet.

Paasikivi played a decisive role in the negotiations for an armistice with Russia that ended the war with that country. During his tenure as chief executive, moreover, Finland loyally and punctually has carried out the terms of the peace treaty, including the onerous reparations provisions.

All this has won him no favor in Moscow, however.

In a broadcast in Finnish on the eve of the balloting in Finland the Moscow radio described Paasikivi as "a man who would strengthen the police despotism," who has constantly conspired to weaken good relations between Finland and Russia and has made a secret agreement "with the American imperialists."

"The wide masses of the (Finnish) people do not wish to support the Paasikivi line," this broadcast concluded, "and the guardianship of foreign imperialists as far as Finnish domestic and foreign policy is concerned."

Ignored The Hint

As it happened, the Finnish masses refused to follow this bald suggestion by the Kremlin that they get rid of Paasikivi and replace him in the presidency by former Premier Mauno Pekkala, member of the Communist-dominated Democratic Union party.

Of 300 electors chosen in the election, 172 are pledged to vote for Paasikivi, as against 66 for Pekkala and 62 for the Agrarian party candidate, Dr. Urho Kekkonen. Paasikivi's re-election is thus assured.

There is no assurance that, with the election over, Russian attacks on him or on the Finnish government will cease.

A free Finland, even one that is scrupulously loyal to the Soviet Union, is an anomaly that the doctrinaires in th Kremlin find it difficult to tolerate, even as they found it difficult tolerate the continued existence of a free Czechoslovakia that was almost pathologic in its readiness to follow Russia's bidding in foreign affairs.

Czechoslovakia's independence disappeared. Finland's is already under attack. But the doughty people of that country continue to act as free men regardless of the rumbles of hostility that emanate from Moscow.

Inside Hollywood

By Bob Thomas

HOLLYWOOD—(AP)—Back in movies after a lapse of a decade or more, Ramon Novarro finds a big difference from the old days—the stars aren't what they used to be.

"In the silent era," he recalled, "there were 18 or 20 stars of first magnitude. Today there are 100 or 200. But they lack the stature and the style of the old-time stars. They are no longer individual; they look alike and dress alike and cut their hair alike.

"In the old days there was only one Gloria Swanson. There was only one Pola Negri. They had their own style that no one could copy. Where is any new star to compare with Garbo? Or Valentino?"

The one-time romantic idol summed it up this way: "In Hollywood today there is more of everything. To use an analogy, there are hundreds more flowers, but they are smaller than they used to be. And they don't smell as sweet."

Pygmalion Is At Varscona

The show that has been rated as the greatest revival of all times, "Pygmalion" will make its debut at the Varscona Theatre today, bringing back all the immortal characters from George Bernard Shaw's famous play.

Starring Leslie Howard and Wendy Hiller, the show is still considered one of the funniest ever made.

The results of a poll taken at Sutton Theatre in New York selected "Pygmalion" as one of the "ten best of 1938," and ten years later was declared among the first five of 1948.

Movie reviews have acclaimed the picture as brilliant, witty, amusing, fast-moving, beautifully directed and acted film, which takes its place among the greats in motion picture's world of fame.

Shaw's "Pygmalion," in its motion picture attire, ranks with "Hamlet" and "Henry V" as convincing proof that great plays can be made into greater movies, without sacrificing anything to film technique. By itself "Pygmalion" is an excellent picture, yet at the same time an accurate and faithful reproduction of the play as George Bernard Shaw wrote it.

URE PLEADS ALBERTA NOW PLANT TREES

CALGARY, Jan. 28.—(CP)—If Alberta farmers planted 100,000,000 trees in the next 25 years it would be the biggest contribution to agriculture in the province in this century, agriculture minister David Ure said here.

He made the remark in dealing with farmers' responsibility to their land and conservation of soil.

Luscious Liz is Glad School Days Over

By Patricia Clary
Exclusive to The Bulletin

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 28.—(BUP)—Elizabeth Taylor, giggling nervously, got her high school graduation diploma last night while a crowd of fans cheered outside the doors.

Then the other 192 members of the University High School class celebrated until dawn in a traditional round of parties. But the 17-year-old movie queen went home. She had to get up at dawn to work.

"And this is the first day I won't have to go to school between scenes," she said. "The most wonderful thing about graduating is that now I can just sit in my dressing room and talk."

Hollywood's newest glamor girl, wearing a tasseled white cap and white gown, walked demurely across the stage to get the leather-covered diploma.

Parents in the audience craned to get a look at her as she filed out of the auditorium. She and the other graduates had to push through a mob of teenagers at the door.

"GLAD IT'S OVER"

"I feel wonderful. I'm so glad it's over," Elizabeth said. "But I'm starved. I haven't had a thing to eat."

Elizabeth, her family, and a current beau, handsome Nick Hilton, son of hotelman Conrad Hilton, went out for a bite of food. Then Elizabeth rushed home to bed.

"None of her other boy friends could come; we only had six invitations," Mrs. Francis Taylor said. "We sent out 50 announcements and some of the people thought they were invitations. It was very embarrassing.

Spy Says He Saw Map Of Red War

BELGRADE, Jan. 28—(AP)—A defendant at Yugoslavia's latest spy trial told a court in Skoplje yesterday he had seen a map outlining the Russian-led cominform's plan for beginning an "armored fight" this spring to overthrow Marshal Tito's government.

The defendant is Blagoj Spasevski, former commander in the Yugoslav army and one of eight persons on trial in the capital of Yugoslav Macedonia on charges of having engaged in espionage and sabotage work for neighboring Bulgaria.

Spasevski and two others earlier confessed their guilt.

Make Bomb or Lose To Reds, U.S. Is Told

By Frederick M. Winship
Special to the Bulletin

NEW YORK, Jan. 28.—(BUP)—The discoverer of heavy hydrogen believes the United States must build the hydrogen bomb or surrender with the rest of the world to Soviet power.

Prof. Harold C. Urey, who won the Nobel prize for discovery of the substance which makes the H-bomb possible, said last night that to decide against development of the bomb would be "intentional loss of the armaments race."

MAY HAVE LOST

Urey told a Roosevelt day dinner audience that whatever the decision, it may be too late.

He said President Truman's reported decision in 1945 not to make the H-bomb had left the United States in a "highly dangerous" situation.

"In fact we may already have lost the armaments race," he said.

If Russia alone develops the bomb, said to be from 10 to 1,000 times more powerful than the atomic bomb, it would be able to force all other nations to surrender without actually using the super weapon, he said.

WORLD GOVERNMENT

Urey said Russian leaders would reason that an explosion of the H-bomb would produce enough radioactivity in the world to endanger Russia itself. Therefore, instead of using the bomb, they would merely issue an ultimatum to the western powers for surrender.

"After this the universal government of the U.S.S.R. will abolish all stocks of bombs and no more will ever be made in the world," he said.

He said the only constructive solution to the world's impasse is the establishment of a world government. He urged the immediate adoption of the Atlantic union resolution by congress for the formation of a union of democratic countries.

Urey, one of the chiefs of the atomic bomb development program during the war, said he "hoped" the H-bomb could not be developed but "assumed" that it could. He scoffed at reports that its cost would be in the billions and said it should not cost more than $100,000,000.

"The atomic bomb is a very important weapon of war, but hardly decisive," he said.

Truman Says It's Undecided

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28—(AP)—President Truman said he alone will decide whether the United States will try to produce a hydrogen bomb, and that he has no idea when the decision will be made.

Meanwhile, he said, he is striving constantly to bring about international control of atomic energy.

The President was asked at his press conference yesterday whether there is anything authoritative he could tell the people on the much discussed super-destructive weapon.

No, said Truman, and no one else could either.

Trial Upsets Mrs. F.D.R.

Exclusive to The Bulletin

AMES, Ia., Jan. 28.—(BUP)—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt indicated last night that she still believes in Alger Hiss' innocence. She said his perjury trial "troubled me a very great deal."

She said at a news conference that she had misgivings about the case, particularly the weight to be given to testimony by the former state department official's accuser, Whittaker Chambers.

"I just don't like it at all," she said, shaking her head vigorously.

"It seems rather horrible to condemn someone on the testimony of another person who by his own admission is a perjurer and a former Communist," she said, referring to Chambers' accusations against Hiss.

"It troubles me a very great deal, you see.

"If a person had been disloyal and feared exposure, the only way for him to go scot free would be to confess the crime and then accuse someone else of the same things."

She said it would "seem strange" to her for Hiss to continue to protest his innocence, unless he were speaking the truth.

Mrs. Rossevelt said she did not know Hiss well enough to testify regarding his character but that she had met him at several functions.

Under an old law, the speaker of the British Parliament has the right to requisition the carriage of any citizen while he is on his way to a session.

Canadians May Use Coffee From Africa

By Harold Morrison

OTTAWA, Jan. 28.—(CP)—Canada's coffee-drinking habits are cutting capers with the country's dollar-saving program, a trade department spokesman disclosed today.

Importers are putting on a big push, he said, to get back into the commonwealth for Canada's coffee supply, but so far they've had little luck.

MORE COFFEE CONSUMED

The Canadian appetite for coffee has grown enormously since prewar days, he added, and a switch from dollar to sterling-area sources has become one of Canada's great trading ambitions.

Before the Second World War, Canada had good sources in British East Africa and the British West Indies. Now the United Kingdom has sewn up these outlets tightly and Canada has had to spend United States dollars in the coffee markets of Brazil and Colombia in South America.

There are signs, however, that Britain's need for dollars has become more powerful than the need for coffee. She has reduced consumption to divert several thousand tons to Canada, to get payment in Canadian dollars.

WANT TO SWITCH

A switch from dollar to sterling sources would be helpful because of these developments:

1. Canada's consumption of coffee has climbed from 44,000,000 pounds a year in 1939 to more than 88,000,000 pounds.

2. With the world supply unusually small this year, the price of coffee on the world market has shot upwards from 25 to 50 cents a pound.

As a result, Canada's dollar expenditures for coffee this year likely will total more than $80,000,000, and leave a hole in the dollar-saving program.

Top Defence Scientists See Less Use For Men

TORONTO, Jan. 28.—(CP)—Canada's chief military scientist said today science has produced machines that can duplicate every human sense but smell and predicted that the tendency to replace men with machines, already begun, will "spread rapidly through all the forces."

Dr. O. M. Solandt, director-general of defence research, said all major armament will soon be fully controlled by automatic mechanisms.

Dr. Solandt said man will not be eliminated from future war but "will merely have to do more complex and difficult though possibly safer jobs in devising, building, controlling and repairing the machines."

In a speech prepared for delivery to Ontario's Association of Professional Engineers, he pictured a world of "servo-mechanisms" designed to perform complex functions, things which in general are "very like men" and whose central brain "now offers the greatest possibilities of experimentation."

These were some of the things Dr. Solandt said:

1. It will be many years before atomic power will be widely used in industry but it will be used much sooner for military applications such as the propulsion of warships or submarines.

2. It has become possible to consider making mechanical operators that can act more quickly and powerfully or even make devisions with greater certainty than the best human operator.

3. It now seems fairly certain that the first technically-successful long-range guided missile will be nothing more than an airplane in which the crew will be replaced by servo-mechanisms. "This pilotless plane will gradually fly higher and faster and will ultimately lose its wings and evolve into the intercontinental rocket of contemporary fiction."

4. Mechanical techniques will be used for collecting, displaying, analyzing, and transmitting the vast mass of information needed for the effective conduct of battles on land, sea or in the air.

Indian Pitcher Breaks Prejudice

OTTAWA, Jan. 28.—Lt.-Col. B. F. Neary of the Indian affairs branch told here how a young Indian boy broke the color line against Indian students at a small Saskatchewan public school.

The school had agreed reluctantly to accept him.

The boy was not accepted socially, however, until the spring. Then somebody put a baseball in his hand. He turned out to be "the best public school pitcher" in the west, said Col. Neary. Since then "we've never had any trouble getting that school to accept Indian boys."

In 1869 the Northwest Territories were added to the Dominion of Canada, and Manitoba was admitted to Confederation in 1870.

Best Dressed Hens

BEST DRESSED chickens strutted their stuff at opening meeting of Southeastern Poultry and Egg Association. Their costumes were made from poultry feed bags. Applause gave the prize to the chicken at left owned by Robert Walker, of Nashville and held by Jessie D. Jewell, president of the association. Walter Berger of Chicago, president American Feed Manufacturers Association, holds the runnerup, a chick from South Carolina.

Killam Prepares Plans For Opening of Arena

KILLAM, Jan. 28.—Second unit of the Killam Memorial Recreational Centre, the new $30,000 Memorial Arena will be officially opened Feb. 8.

The first unit, the curling rink, was completed two years ago. Next stage in the overall program is construction of a children's playground and park.

The new arena, sponsored by the Killam District Board of Trade represents a whole hearted community effort on the part of business men, farmers, church and other organizations in the district.

LARGEST

One of the largest in the province, the Killam arena will give a crowd of 2,000 obstruction-clear vision, of the entire surface.

Opening day program features hockey and broomball games, a skating exhibition by Edmonton Glenora Skating Club.

Official send-off will be made by A. E. Fee, MLA.

U.S. Starts Flow Of Arms

By JAMES E. ROPER
Special to The Bulletin

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—(BUP)—Completion of mutual aid agreements today cleared the way for shipment of $1,000,000,000 worth of American arms to western Europe. But that may be only a starter.

First free weapons under the program are expected to leave the United States about March 1.

Congress appropriated $1,000,000,000 for the program up until June 30, but military men already are talking of expanding it into a four-year program.

The first shipments will be artillery, tanks, large calibre ammunition and other heavy supplies now in U.S. Army surplus stocks. They will be charged against the program at cut prices, so Europe actually will get arms that cost the United States $1,900,000,000.

Win and Lose

VETERAN, Jan. 28.—Veteran pee-wee hockey won at Consort 4-0, goal scorers being M. Canfield (2), Selma Likness and Teddy Leicht.

Consort juniors defeated Veteran here 7-1.

IN OUR Province

Weather Hits Water, School Attendances

WHITECOURT, Jan. 28—Serious water shortage threatens Whitecourt if cold spell continues.

Wells are for most part quite shallow and the frost has caused streams underground to be greatly reduced.

People with sandpoint wells are supplying more needy neighbors.

Few wells supply a quantity of water to be effective in case of fire.

Schools Closed

WETASKIWIN, Jan. 28.—Many schools in Wetaskiwin Division No. 36 have been closed for days at a time during the severe weather.

In some districts it is almost impossible for the school buses to make rounds, while in the case of the one room schools it has been too hazardous for the younger children to attempt to make the trip.

The school division board advised parents to keep children at home when the thermometer reached 30 below. This, of course, is not an arbitrary ruling.

One trucker, trying to break a trail from Gwynee to Nashville, about three miles, took from nine in the morning till four in the afternoon before he managed to get through.

In the camp school in Wetaskiwin, conditions are somewhat different. There is a dormitory in connection and most of the High School students from country points live at the dormitory. The grade school, however, to which the children are brought by bus, has suffered severely in attendance.

Dormitory students ordinarily go home for the weekends but many of them now stay over the weekend holiday, until weather conditions improve.

Hardisty Bank Manager Retires

HARDISTY, Jan. 28.—A. Ball, for 20 years manager of Canadian Bank of Commerce in Hardisty, has retired. He and Mrs. Ball will reside in Edmonton.

C. Daw, of Dawson Creek, B. C., is the new manager here.

New Commercial Building Advance

Edmonton's central western area today advanced another solid pace in the official opening of a brand new building on 124 street between 108 and 109 avenue. It houses four widely different retail services.

The building was started last August under contractor Andrew Sawchuck and was finished complete with fixtures, trimmings and fittings about three weeks ago.

Plans for the building were prepared with expansion in mind and although not contemplated immediately there is provision for a 31-foot extension, said W. U. Altwasser, who purchased the building.

DAYLIGHT

Generous window space facing toward the west permits the maximum amount of daylight in the four stores operated by his commercial tenants.

Modern hot air furnace provides even temperatures through a vent system channeling pre-heated air by force throughout the building at ceiling height.

Plaster walls in the business premises are in a restrained tone of grey and the compressed fibre tile flooring in conventional piebald tones promises long life and attractive polish.

The building is conveniently located near bus stops and a busy intersection.

The services offered by its merchant tenants will save many steps to residents of a large surrounding area.

LLOYDMINSTER, Jan. 28.—"Sundy" Sunderland, president Lloydminster Rotary Club, was guest speaker at regular meeting of Quota Club. His subject was work of service clubs in general.

Curlers Make Good-will Tour

BENTLEY, Jan. 28.—Two Edmonton rinks, one from Royal and other from Alberta Avenue Club, defeated Bently curlers by a small margin, while on a good-will tour.

Royal rink, Larry Hodgins (skip), Harry Mills, Tom Comfort and Wilf Carrington, won 11-8 over Clarence Hergott (skip), Claud Summers, Dick Cameron and Fred Lenz.

Alberta Avenue rink skipped by Arthur Mowbray defeated Stan Walker (skip), Percy Wilton, Alvin Freeman and Louis Szasz, 12-10.

Total cost of mental sickness and its complications in Canada is close to $500,000,000 a year.

New Trustee

VETERAN, Jan. 28.—Thomas Thuan was elected trustee for Neutral Hills School Division in the election held here.

HEALTH UNIT LISTS AILMENTS

Underweights Outscore Drumheller Overweights

DRUMHELLER, Jan. 28—Overweights of school age were outnumbered by underweights 19 to 11 according to the third quarterly report released here by Drumheller Health Unit. Nail biters totalled 22.

But 57 defective vision cases and 104 of bad teeth were the leading ailments found amongst the children of school age throughout the Drumheller district.

Tonsils, the report divulged, are a problems to 49 of the youngsters examined, while skin trouble cases number 19. Bad posture is a fault for seven youngsters to overcome, while two others are listed as ear cases. Only one, it is pointed out, suffered from a heart complaint.

The Health Unit, which was established here about one year ago, maintains clinics for babies, distributes pamphlets, gives immunization shots, lectures on health subjects to school children and adults and maintains a sanitation section for the city and surrounding district.

Dr. Rhys Jones, medical health officer for the unit, who arrived in Canada after the war, is at present on course in Toronto. Dr. G. H. Whitmore, who served the community for over 30 years as health officer, is medical health officer for the unit.

Staff includes two nurses: Miss Marion Brennan, RN, BSc, and Victorine Hachey. Hugh Bell, BSc, is sanitary inspector, while Miss Catherin Campbell is secretary-treasurer.

Representatives of the various districts served by the unit are: Harry Burton, Drumheller; Jack Jubb, north Drumheller; T. Rowe, Michichi and Starland; S. J. Canning, Carbon; and R. W. Waters for Morrin.

EXTRA EARLY NEW TOMATO
Early Chatham
"EARLY CHATHAM" TOMATO
Earliest Quality Tomato Yet Developed — Valuable For All Parts of Canada
Of immense value for the North and West and other short season districts. Highly desirable for all other areas too as an extra early sort producing fine quality ripe fruit as much as two weeks or more before most other varieties. Has been a sensation on the Prairies since 1943, including such districts as Lethbridge and Brooks, Alta. Indian Head and Swift Current, Sask.; Brandon and Morden, Man. Around Calgary, where first distributed under the name of "Alberta", gardeners were simply "wild" about it. At Lethbridge Early Chatham ripened a week to twelve days before other extra early varieties. At Morden, Man., it has yielded as much as 20% to 40% greater crop than other good earlies. Early Chatham is dwarf, non-staking, and may be planted as closely as two feet each way. Fruits uniform in shape and colour; delicious quality. Average about 2¼ inches across but frequently larger. (Pkt. 15¢) (oz. 75¢) postpaid.

YOU HAVE NEEDS . . . Britain is making the goods to meet them

Designing for your needs now has first call on Britain's resources and skill. She has studied your requirements, and has welcomed your buyers in greater numbers every year.

Exhibiting at the British Industries Fair 3,000 manufacturers will reveal their latest products, and from every country overseas 16,000 buyers will assemble to make immediate selections for their own markets.

Making new goods for the world has raised Britain's production to a record level. In turn these exports enable her to buy—and Britain is the world's greatest customer.

Trade Buyers ! Ensure your accommodation now because tourists also reserve Britain's hotels in May.

★ B.I.F., the largest national trade fair, will be extended in 1950. Exhibits alone will occupy 100,000 square metres.

★ For the convenience of buyers public admission is restricted throughout the Fair.

★ Twenty-six groups of allied trades will represent ninety industries.

★ Engineering & Hardware in Birmingham. Lighter Industries in London.

THERE IS just about everything the family needs under this one roof. New building on 124 street between 108-109 avenues will be home for such prominent merchants as Al Myers, meat market; Gordon Comrie, sewing machines; John Sinclair, kiddies' wear; Jack Conroy, men's wear.

Everything Under One Roof For Whole Family

A great American mercantile firm once advertised they could supply anything from a needle to an elephant.

Four Edmonton merchants today launched individual businesses in a new building on 124 street between 108 and 109 avenue, and while you can't buy an elephant—even a white one—you can get just about everything else.

Good Meats

And who wants to buy an elephant when a hungry customer may select from a wide range of fine, government-inspected fresh meats from Al Myers' Meat Market.

Mr. Myers, an expert sausage maker and butcher, recently arrived from Saskatoon where he had many years' experience in the meat trade. He will conduct one of the four services which opened today.

Mr. Myers believes in giving service and his meat market will have a delivery service in connection.

Also in stock will be canned, smoked and cured meats as well as a line of tinned vegetables and fruits, oleomargarine and butter.

A commodious refrigerator keeps meats in prime condition with even, regulated temperature and the modern spotless display counters are fitted with Frigidaire cooling.

Sewing Needs

A well-known Edmonton businessman for many years, Gordon Comrie, who also has sewing machine sales and service stores at 10511-82 avenue and 8818-118 avenue, conducts one of the four bright new stores with his third service, which includes also notions and many sewing needs as well as drapes.

nI charge is Mrs. E. S. Taylor whose experience over 16 years in dress designing, patternmaking, sewing, is available to customers as an adjunct to the sewing machine sales and service department.

In addition to this extended branch of merchandise Mrs. Taylor offers the unusual service of covering buttons, stitching buttonholes and fine hemstitching.

A full line of modern electric and treadle, portable and console model Vickers sewing machines, together with the beautiful new model Comrie sewing machines was creating much interest with a large number of visitors, friends and customers present for the official opening today.

John Coates, manager of the 118 avenue branch, is in charge of repair and maintenance service on sewing machines for both stores.

A line of beautiful draperies is carried and the larger portion of one wall was graced by made up sets in floral and conventional patterns.

Children's Store

Children and parents will revel in the breadth of selection in John Sinclair's Kiddies' Korner store.

Mr. Sinclair is one of the quartet of enterprising businessmen and is operating a children's wear retail store in the new building.

Custom Tailors

Men's ready-to-wear and made-to-measure suits and coats and a suit or coat custom-made for women is the principle service offered by Jack Conroy's new store to complete a widely varied mercantile service in one building.

A full line of men's furnishings is carried and materials used in the made-to-measure department are strictly of good quality in patterns and shades that are pleasing to the eye.

Expert craftsmanship in the custom made clothing department is promised from the 29 years' experience of Mrs. Anna Schmidt, tailoress and furrier.

New Manager Is Appointed

Appointment of Garnet Hollingshead as business manager of Royal Alexandra hospital, succeeding Murray Ross, was announced at last night's hospital board meeting by Dr. D. R. Easton, hospital superintendent.

The appointment is effective Feb. 16.

Mr. Hollingshead is now head accountant with University Hospital here. He has been with the hospital seven years. Prior to that he spent 15 years in banking.

Born in Toronto, Mr. Hollingshead was educated in Edmonton, is married and has four children.

TODAY'S MESSAGE

BROTHERS' KEEPERS

Ever re-current is the question Cain raised long ago: "Am I my brother's keeper?" When Christ was on earth He was at pains to proclaim the essential truth that no man may live entirely to himself. He spoke much of the charity due to others as neighbors. In using the word neighbor, He made no distinction between rich or poor, wise or foolish, good men or bad.

It requires a deep religious integrity constantly to exemplify this universal brotherhood. As members of the human family, we cannot in conscience ignore any call for sympathy, encouragement or help from any one of God's creatures. But too many fail fully to live up to this supreme obligation.

For instance, there are those who, though not altogether lacking in kindness, are indifferent or neglectful toward their broad social obligations. Poverty breeds almost unnoticed in slums behind the mansions of the wealthy. Then there are the good-hearted men who will open their purses readily to anyone who comes to them for help. But the same individuals may be unmoved by appeals for the needy in some far-off place. Their charity is real, but it tends to be myopic and insular.

That men should neglect or ignore the physical sufferings of others is bad enough. But when they spurn their neighbors in their spiritual needs, tragedy becomes multiplied. The righteous man becomes a hypocrite when he condemns or casts scorn upon sinners. All too frequently the sinner is left seeking vainly for even one neighbor from whom he can find the word of kindness that may lift him out of the pit of folly and remorse.

True, there are priests and ministers to whom the burdened sinner can turn. But sin can be a prison from which an unfortunate may find it difficult to break loose. The drunkard lying in the gutter has to be lifted up and helped before he can be persuaded to kneel in sorrow before an altar. The delinquent must be taught to see the error of his ways before he is ready to seek spiritual rehabilitation.

Whether it is a matter of giving physical or spiritual assistance to others, all men have a common, ceaseless obligation. To remain blind or indifferent to this obligation—in whole or in part—means ignoring the second great commandment: "Love thy neighbor." Responsibility cannot be sloughed off by asking Cain's question. We are all committed to the task not only of winning our own salvation but helping others to do the same.

COME TO CHURCH THIS SUNDAY

Christian Science Lesson Sermon

"And he answering said, Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind; and thy neighbor as thyself." (Luke 10:27). "Love for God and man is the true incentive in both healing and teaching. Love inspires, illumines, designates, and leads the way." (Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures, by Mary Baker Eddy, p. 454). The Sunday Lesson-Sermon on "Love" in all Christian Science churches is composed of readings like the foregoing.

One fixed fact of which we are certain beyond doubt is a foundation on which we can base our philosophy of life. One thing I know, that whereas I was blind, now I see.—Jn. 9:25.

Holy Trinity Reports Increasing Interest

Increased interest and activity in all departments during the year was evident from reports given at annual congregational meeting of Holy Trinity Anglican Church. The rector, Canon W. M. Nainby, was chairman.

New memorial parish hall, valued at $50,000, was completed during the year. It was officially opened and dedicated in October.

Steady increase of attendance both in the congregation and Sunday schools was reported, with the men of the congregation playing an increasingly important part.

Tribute was paid to the wardens, H. W. Tye, H. G. Dyer, the Sunday school superintendent, F. Brown, and envelope secretary, A. H. Lord, and to all organizations. Canon and Mrs. Nainby were also accorded a vote of appreciation for their untiring work.

H. W. Tye was again chosen as rector's warden, and H. G. Dyer re-elected people's warden.

Vestrymen are: S. B. Clarke, C. Crook, Dr. S. G. Davis, C. S. Fletcher, F. J. Fishburne, J. S. Gilbert, G. Hare, H. H. Moor, H. Moss, J. G. Rowlatt, H. Rayment, A. E. Salter, J. E. Smith, T. M. Walton and R. Wood.

A. H. Lord was re-elected envelope secretary, and T. W. Bull and R. Wood again chosen auditors.

Delegates to Synod are: T. W. Bull, F. J. Fishburne, F. C. Jamieson, A. H. Lord, A. E. Salter and H. W. Tye.

Conveners of sidesmen are: P. D. Fowler and L. Fishburne.

Members of the Women's Auxiliary served refreshments at the close of the meeting.

British-Israel Stamp Lantern Lecture Sunday

On Sunday afternoon, Jan. 29, an interesting lantern lecture will be given in the Social Credit hall at 3 p.m. Miss Emily Mayhew, RN, will show pictures on a screen, of stamps of different nations which she has collected during her work as a war nurse.

Miss Mayhew is an Edmonton girl who had just recently taken over work in the well-baby clinic after holding nursing posts in various parts of Canada since the end of World War II.

Formerly a school teacher, her knowledge of the Bible prophecies through her studies of British-Israel, led her to forsake teaching and take up nursing. When war broke out Miss Mayhew followed the troops to Africa where she nursed throughout the African campaign and into Italy.

FULTON OURSLER'S Modern Parables

THE TOLL-HOUSE GROUCH

Dear Friends and Gentle Hearts:

Some call it a hunch, others intuition. Believers say it is the voice of conscience, or, perhaps, the whisper of a guardian angel. Whatever name we give the experience, nearly every one of us can remember a time when something urgent within seemed to tell us what to do.

Fulton Oursler

My favorite of many strange tales told of such things, is the true story of the toll-house keeper; and adventure that befell the novelist, Edison Marshall, author of many fine books, including the superb new "Gypsy Sixpence."

In 1931, when it happened, the depression had reached its lowest point. Edison Marshall, driving an old Ford sedan, was on a 400-mile trip across the Gulf States. Anxious to make time, and having rested overnight in a Mississippi village, he resumed his solitary journey in the cold of dawn. At a crossroads near the end of town he was signalled by a stranger — a hatless youth, in a ragged overcoat, begging a ride. As he clambered into the front seat, the hitch-hiker expressed his thanks with shivering politeness.

But when they drove off, Marshall happened to notice another youth, standing in a doorway and hugging himself to keep warm. As they sped on down the roads, the memory of that tall, red-haired, barefoot fellow, without an overcoat, continued to haunt the novelist's mind. Finally he had to speak of it.

"Him!" said the passenger. "Sure I know the guy! He's my buddy."

"Well, why didn't he come along, too?" asked Marshall. "Isn't he going this way?"

"Yes, he is—we're both hitchhiking for a job in a town 100 miles away—but it's no good trying to go together. Too many holdups and all. Lots of drivers are afraid to give a lift to just one; two fellows together scares them. So we spit to see who could spit the farthest—and I won the first car."

For a moment, Marshall was strongly tempted to turn back and pick up the other youth. But they had already gone twenty miles and he was anxious to get to his destination. So he dropped the idea and drove on. Still the thought of that cold lad with tightly folded arms, barefoot in the cold, would not let him be. It was scolding his mind when they arrived at an old-fashioned toll-gate.

With long, extended hand, the keeper came out, a cheerless man, to collect the ten cent piece required before the barrier would be lifted.

"Helloa!" said Marshall genially. "Kind of chilly this morning!"

The toll-house man made no reply. His face was frowning; lips fixed in a grim line. Yet in spite of his forbidding manner, Marshall decided to risk asking a favor.

"Listen!" he began. "there's likely to be a young hitch-hiker coming along here in a little while. He is tall and red-haired, and he has no overcoat and no shoes. Would you give him this for me?"

And in the palm of the toll-house keeper, Marshall laid some bills [illegible].

Two years later the novelist came riding that way again. At the [illegible] gate, he was met this time, [illegible] by the sour-visaged old gatekeeper, but by an energetic gray-haired little woman who dropped his [illegible] in an apron pocket and thanked him with a chee[illegible].

"My dear," said [illegible], "[illegible] years ago I left some money with a man here—I [illegible] husband—to give to a [illegible] coat or shoes. Do you recall if the kid ever showed up?"

The little old woman [illegible] and grabbed the hand of [illegible].

"So you're the [illegible]" "My husband wasn't nice to you, was he? He wasn't [illegible] not for years and years. I [illegible] understand him all right, because it was hard on me, too—but you know how men are; they can take things awful hard. You see, we lost our boy in the big war. He was our only one. And pop was never the same after—not till the morning that young fellow came here and pop handed him your money. Somehow they got to talking. We gave him some coffee and before we got through, pop [illegible] him to stay with us for a [illegible]. He did, too. He stayed [illegible] and helped out with the [illegible] to the time pop [illegible]. Wasn't that nice of him? I [illegible] meant everything to pop;—Roy, he said, was sent from God [illegible] our lonesomeness. He [illegible] now, buying us some fertilizer for the west field—as handsome a [illegible] as anybody could want. You [illegible] never guess what you did for us all."

That is the point—none of us can ever guess how much we may be able to do, when we listen to the inner voice, urging us to [illegible] someone in [illegible]

Series For Young People At Beulah

Youth Evangelism, presented by Rev. T. J. Spier, of Regina, will be the theme in a week of evangelistic services scheduled to open in Beulah Tabernacle on Sunday morning. Sponsored by the Young People of Beulah Tabernacle, this series of special meetings will continue each week night Tuesday through Saturday at 8 p.m.

Rev. Spier, an accomplished song leader, trained in young people's work through radio ministry and pastoral service in Montreal, Atlanta and Regina, is prepared to bring to youth audiences in Edmonton a practical message of the Gospel of Christ and its power to meet the spiritual needs of modern youth.

While planned especially for young people these meetings are open to all. Special singing and music will be presented in each service.

Ingram Can't See Inter-City Loop

A four-team inter-city junior football league between Calgary and Edmonton would be too expensive a proposition for this city next fall.

That was the opinion expressed yesterday by Junior Football league president Gordon Ingram. He was commenting on a report from Calgary which disclosed that southern officials favored a provincial loop, embracing two teams from each city.

Said Ingram: "It is my personal opinion that this year, anyway, we couldn't afford the expense involved.

"Besides, there is a shortage of good junior material here, and it is our aim to bring second-rate teams along in a three-team city circuit during the 1950 season."

However, Ingram hastened to say he plans to feel out the athletic clubs on the matter, and if they desire to enter a provincial league his organization will do everything in its power to promote the venture.

The matter likely will receive consideration when the Alberta Rugby Union convenes in Calgary, Feb. 12.

Time Out

By Dick Beddoes

Blowhard Beddoes' Bits and Balderdash:

Item: Some of the greatest skiers on the globe were sitting around the famous Lake Placid ski resort yesterday, unable to ski in the world championships.

There was no snow.

Officials are going whackey throwing dry ice from an airplane into the clouds to make snow, having crews sweating night and day chopping ice from nearby Lake Mirror to take care of the jumping events, and phoning the weather bureau.

That is a sad state of affairs, as you will allow.

Myself, I would hire Paul Bunyan and his Blue Ox to haul snow from here to Lake Placid. And don't laugh at that, bub, because Paul and his livestock freighted snow from Asia to Maine when that state had summer all winter during the year of the Blue Moon.

But he should worry. The Varsity players themselves are GREEN and GOLD.

GREY CUP FILM

"How Calgary Lost the Grey Cup or Why Didn't Keith Spaith Get Off the Dime?" is one of the themes you get out of the 1949 dominion football final after viewing the films of same.

Yesterday members of the Eskimo executive and newspapermen got a look at the Grey Cup battle in a special screening of the Canadian Rugby Union-produced film.

And it was apparent after the first tackle had been made that the aforesaid Mr. Spaith was having a bad day.

He appeared to freeze. His passing was erratic. Sometimes he passed not at all.

A gent named Filchock has a role in the film, quite a role, in fact. His red sweater was all over the field, and the picture confirms that he was the great factor in the Grey Cup moving to Montreal.

The football flickers will be shown in Wetaskiwin Monday, at Westglen auditorium Tuesday, and to the Touchdown Club on Wednesday.

Down in Calgary, where Les Lear was king for a day following Stampeders Grey Cup conquest in 1948, the same Lear has been signed to reign as coach for six more years.

He figures to pick up $35,000 for his football chores during that time, which, you'll agree, is more than a few [illegible].

Lester is currently on the west coast hunting for talent and yesterday he signed Cedric Gyles to a Stamp contract. He also confided to a Vancouver newspaperman that he was interested in Bob Waterfield, ace quarterback with the professional Los Angeles Rams.

Comment: Most guys are interested in Waterfield's highly publicized wife, the fabulous Jane Russell. Whatta cheer leader she'd make!

Ace Bailey, Toronto Maple Leaf right wing star, suffered a fractured skull in a collision with Shore in a game at Boston in December [illegible] and was forced to quit hockey as a result.

COMMENT: The guy that said time flies and whisky runs fast had something on the ball at that.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Los Angeles Monarchs of the Pacific Coast Hockey league bolstered their team yesterday by acquiring wingman Johnny Arundel from Pittsburgh Hornets.

Golden Gloves Ace Buddy McDonald Stops Edwards

A pair of fighters who figure as distinct threats in next month's scheduled Golden Gloves, stole the spotlight when 'promoter' Alf Tansey offered a star-studded amateur boxing card at the Stock Pavilion last night.

Gritty Buddy McDonald, Golves titlist last year, representing the Edmonton Boys Boxing club, and Joy Edwards, Amber Valley swatsmith, were the battlers who caught the fancy of the 500 or so fans in attendance.

They clashed in a bout billed as the semi-wind-up, with McDonald, who scaled 118 pounds, scoring a knockout in the third round at the expense of his 116-pound opponent.

STARTED WELL ENOUGH

Edwards enjoyed a small edge in the opening round but began to unravel as McDonald took change in the second. A left to the jaw at 50 seconds of the third heat finished Edwards.

Only other knockout registered on the eight-bout card went to Walter Kozak, South Side Legion. Kozak stopped Edgar Faciote, unattached at 1.40 of the third round. Faciote, who looked out of shape, was never in it.

MACK FAILED TO SHOW

Most disappointing feature of the night was the failure of Eugene Mack, Wildwood scrapper, to show up for his advertised bout against Gordon Riddell. No explanation was forthcoming.

Prominent in the doings were the Hornsby brothers of Len McKinley's Barrhead club. Both Jack and 'Red' Hornsby turned in triumphs, former getting a split decision over Ronnie Dadds, the latter earning a unanimous nod over Jerry Downey.

However Eddie, youngest of the three brothers, lost to provincial 75-pound champion Neil Neville.

Complete results follow:

Exercise 'Done It' To Frank Currie

It was about all that Frank Currie could do to drag himself around yesterday, what with being stiff and sore all over.

And 'dat ol' debbil' exercise was to blame.

The Flyer coach had gotten himself mixed up in a curling challenge the day before, emerging from a two-hour session at the Royal club with an enhanced reputation as a guy who can lay those stanes down pretty good and a set of muscles that promptly began to stiffen up on him.

HE'LL COME ROUND

"Yep, I'll be alright in a few days," was his promise late last night. And he said it like a man making a slow comeback after falling off the Empire State building.

Whether by wheel-chair, or otherwise, Mr. Currie will keep a date at the Gardens tonight. Flyers are scheduled to take on Calgary Stampeders in a Western Canada Hockey league offering that shouldn't lack ginger.

It won't, that is, IF Stamps show up.

Last time the teams were booked into the local icehouse, those pesky Cowboys failed even to leave Calgary. A lot of Flyer supporters at first were inclined to believe that the Stamps had run out on the game.

TOO MUCH 'SMOG'

Later however, it developed that poor flying conditions had caused cancellation of the jaunt north.

Flyers will dress the same crew that humiliated Regina Caps 16-2 last Monday. This means that the newly-put-together forward line of centre Steve Latoski, flanked by Colin Kilburn and Don Culley, will remain intact.

Otherwise it will be Anderson-Merluk-Clovechok and Kreller-Pringle-Smitten up front, with Doug Lane, Gordon Watt, Bill Pettinger and Harvey Young handling the defence chores.

And Ray Frederick, still seeking his first shutout of the season, will be in the cage.

Flyers have a three point bulge on second place Stamps in the standings. Teams play in Calgary again Monday.

Saints Win To Take 3rd Place

St. Anthony's downed YMCA Jacks 64-35 at St. Anthony's gym last night and finished the season in third place, two points ahead of Jacks, in the final standings of the Junior Men's Basketball league.

Saints' hustling, curly haired centre, Johnny Dewar, led the college five by sinking a total of twenty points.

St. Anthony's—Dewar 20, Allen 15, Conti 8, McKinney 11, Lemmon 4, Cummins 6, Abt, Gallant. Total 64.

YMCA Jacks—Finken, Halberg 4, Saddy 3, Konashewsky 18, Rutherford 9, Park 1, Sandstrom, Pope, Woodman. Total 35.

Surprising Capitals Edge Saskatoon 2-1

REGINA, Jan. 28.—(CP)—Regina Capitals last night forced their way toward the cellar door, edging third-place Saskatoon Quakers 2-1 in a Western Canada Hockey league game.

Fresh from Wednesday night's 5-4 win over Calgary Stampeders, Caps scored once in the second period, and again in the third against a lone Quaker third-period tally. They now trail Saskatoon by three points.

WIEST THE PLAYMAKER

Ab McDougall and Red Tilson performed the scoring chore, but Bob Wiest rated assists on both goals. Tommy Burlington notched Quaker's counter.

The game was rough and ragged, with penalties aplenty.

Quaker Manager Bill Hunter was escorted from the rink by a policeman after an argument with referee Vic Lundquist of Winnipeg just before the second period ended.

Bill Kyle, Regina forward, drew a misconduct for heaving his broken stick over the boards near the end of the game.

Dick Kotanen drew three minors, and Harold Brayshaw and Denny Huddleston got two apiece.

Harry Barefoot for Caps and Quaker goalie Johnny Sofiak were both in difficulty in the scrappy but slow first frame. Both teams were operating on a reduced basis periodically, and the penalty box saw most of the action.

QUAKERS SHORTHANDED

Second period started off in much the same fashion, with Sofiak stopping determined drives by Ab McDougall and Lou Hauck. Vic Myles cooled for hooking and later Howie Milford made the pilgrimage for cross-checking, but Caps couldn't capitalize.

At 19:36 of the period McDougall took a golfed pass from Wiest and rammed it past Sofiak from in front of the net.

In the third Caps' attack perked up, and Tilson clicked early in the frame. Kotanen went off for tripping, but Caps weathered a Quaker flurry until his return.

Mel Hill went right in on Sofiak, failed to score, and missed another good chance a moment later.

Tommy Burlington's tally for Quakers came at 13:16, when he slapped in Chuck McCullough's rebound.

Saskatoon yanked Sofiak near the game's end, but time ran out.

LINEUPS

Saskatoon: Sofiak; Myles, Milford; Burlington; McCullough, Thomas. Subs: Huddlestone, Meyers, Hunter, Mahaa, Rouse, Shabaga, Kuzma, Bentley.

Regina: Barefoot; Kotanen, Wilkie; Kyle; Hauck, McDougall. Subs: Brayshaw, Blackett, Staseson, Brown, Stein, Wiest, Hill, Tilson.

Officials — Vic Linquist, Winnipeg; Chick Little, Regina.

SUMMARY

First Period: Scoring - none. Penalties — Thomas, Brayshaw (2), Kotanen, (2), Huddlestone.

Second Period: Regina, McDougall (Wiest) 19:46. Penalties — Myles, Huddlestone, Milford, Staseson

Third Period: Regina, Tilson (Wiest) 3:22; Saskatoon, Burlington (McCullough) 13:06 Penalties — Kotanen, Kyle (misconduct).

COLLISION between Rangers' Edgar Laprade (10) and Bill Ezinicki, Toronto's rambunctious winger, brought stoppage in play during National Hockey league game at Toronto Wednesday. Leafs won 5-1.

Canadians Scuttle Leaf Juniors 10-3

Paced by their first string line of Gene Achtymichuk-Gord Dromrosky-Don Fraser, Canadians drubbed fourth place Maple Leafs last night at the Gardens and solidified their second place Northern Alberta Junior Hockey league standing.

The loop's top point-getter was the big gun in the Canadian win. Gene (Ack-Ack) Achtymichuk fired three goals and assisted on three more. Dromrosky and Fraser each scored two goals. Dromrosky also added an assist.

Leafs took an early 2-0 lead on goals by Ray Kinasewich and Nick Mandryk in the opener only to have Canucks explode for four quick goals. Kinasewich made it 4-3 with his second marker of the night before the period ended and that was the closest the Leafs got the rest of the evening.

The eventual winners took a commonding lead as they scored five goals in the second stanza, then got the only goal of the third period for their margin of victory.

Other goal getters for Canadians were Brown, Kirstine and Hodgson.

BLUELINE FACEOFFS . . .

Canadian coach Cooney LeFeuvre used Don Saunders on defence last night. Saunders teamed up with burly Mike Hirst. Hirst's former partner, Gil Myler, did some 'roving' over the course of the evening.

Canadian forward Al Mawhinney left the game during the latter stages because of an ankle injury. Mawhinney has just got over a knee injury, but this latest mishap won't keep him out of action.

• • •

Mike Kinasewich received a nasty cut across the mouth during the second frame as he was checked by Hirst of Canadians. A nice red pool of blood dotted the ice but no penalty was handed out.

LINEUPS

Canadians: Sangster; Hirst, Saunders; Achymichuk; Dromosky, Fraser Subs: Kirstine, McAvoy, Mawhinney, Hodgson, Bryant, McNicoll, Myler, Anderson, Lester, Brown.

Maple Leafs: Mooney; Hortie, Barry; Grocholski; Lamoureux, Burchby. Subs: Bucyk, Zemrau, Mandryk, Eastcott, Menage, M. Kinasewich, R. Kinasewich, Elniski, Munro, Kirk.

Man With the Mumbles

Portrait of a man talking to himself . . .

Wonder how many goals Flyers will have on Stamps at Soldout Stadium tonight? Probably two . . . even three, maybe. It's a queer season these clubs are having, each looking like a world-beater puck machine at home, only to fold up with a loud 'phht' on the other guy's pond. Stamps aren't nearly so dangerous on the attack anymore because Dunc Grant is no part of the sniper he once was. Definitely it was a mistake to saddle this cutie with backchecking chores. What a potent line he made with 'Red' Hunter and Bob Brownridge in the 'good old days' . . . See where the Yankee Clipper signed for an estimated $100,000. Guess he'll still be able to take on his groceries at Toot Shor's famed Broadway restaurant, although Joe DiMaggio could tell you that the U.S. government certainly has that 100 Gees cut down to size once taxes come out.

This is the day when Recreation Commission's Learn-to-Ski campaign leaves the starting gate. Even citizens who don't know a ski from a snowplow should be on the bandwagon. It's mostly for the kids, you see.

That Friday night feeling. The work coming hard after four-five days—nights of slugging away. Wonder where those Boston stick-up artists were holed up all this week. Hey, get back on the beam, Moher. That ain't sport.

★ ★ ★ ★

Henry Trimble . . . Joe Heartwell . . . Sam Savage—always get around to remembering these oldtimers and more like them when the annual bonspiel pops up. These men weren't just curlers, they were personalities. They dripped color, a commodity that's mighty scarce in these days of matched rocks, artificial ice and like gimmicks. Looks like the gents behind Edmonton's annual 'spiel have a selling job to do in the next two or three years if the event is to regain its rightful place alongside other top western Canada bonspiels . . . Regina has Saskatoon down one—nothing at the end of the second period. How can you figure this league, anyway?

There goes a phone. "Long distance," according to office boy Stephen Collins. Might be Jack Kelly, from down Ponoka-way. He's doing a great job of handling publicity and statistics for the Central Alberta league. Some pretty good hockey players in those towns. Roy Jardine, George Menzies, Max MacLean and 'Git' Remple, for instance, all can play more than a little.

So they beat Citation at Santa Anita yesterday. You can stop any horse, even as great a one as the Calumet Comet, if you make him pack the grandstand. For sure 130 pounds is no feather. Soon Citation will be eligible for Millionaires' Row. Yipes.

★ ★ ★ ★

Smart cookie Stan Leonard. He'll take on Snead, Hogan, Demaret, Freddy Haas in possibly two or three more of those tournaments on the other side, then head back to Vancouver. In the meantime his prestige has been jacked up, especially after his second place finish at Long Beach, and he'll not be bothered with stomach ulcers or the shakes as so many of the buck-chasers who can't leave the high-pressure golf alone finally are . . . Last time Leonard played in Edmonton he shot a 29 on Mayfair's back nine, was 64 for the course. Most of the members over there still can't believe it . . . It's 10:30 and there should be some news out of curling headquarters in the Macdonald in the next few minutes. They had 106 entries earlier tonight, probably hit the 125 mark before the finish.

Someone is inquiring when the first Leduc oil well blew in. Why ask me? All I know for sure about Leduc is that [illegible] That was after he had southpawed it in the majors.

Midget Hockey league scores starting to roll in. It's great that the kids were able to get in their games for a change. Now if it'll just get a little warmer (35 degrees or so).

Regina 2, Saskatoon 1, game over . . . Maybe Cliff Ehrle'll save the old [illegible] having to [illegible] Cup of his . . . Flyers by [illegible]

ROBBINS, AL MAROTTI SET FOR MONDAY BOUT

Marotti and Robbins, both apparently in top shape, will have a light workout today, then take it easy till fight time.

Robbins will be making his first appearance in Edmonton while Marotti decisioned Benny Geary here two weeks ago on his local debut.

If Robbins wins this fight he wants another crack at Jimmy Nolan, western Canada welterweight champion.

Four other bouts will complete Monday's card.

WINNING Tampa ,Florida, women's open golf tournament last week produced victory smile on Polly Riley's face, right. Miss Riley, Fort Worth amateur, is being congratulated by Louise Suggs, Carrollton, Ga., who placed second. 'Suggsy' is happy, too—she won $1,000 as top pro.

Demaret Paces In Phoenix Play

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 28. — (AP) — Jimmy Demaret grabbed a firmer hold on the $10,000 Ben Hogan Open golf tournament lead here yesterday as Ben Hogan slipped over par in the second round.

Demaret, the defending champ, shot a four-under-par 67 with his record-tying 64 of Thursday. That 131 was two strokes better than Johnny Palmer of Badin, N.C., who finished with 133. Johnny had a pair of three-putt greens which kept him from tying Demaret, the colorful pro from Ojai, Calif.

Hogan had rough going and finished with a 73. His total of 138 put him down the list.

Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W.Va., shot a 69 yesterday which gave him a 135 and a tie for fifth place.

Ed Furgol, Royal Oak, Mich., was all alone in third place with a 134. He had a 65 yesterday.

Vancouver's Stan Leonard, who shot a par 71 in his opening round Thursday, added a 72 yesterday for a 36-hole score of 143. Although this is a creditable score in any tournament, the unusually-low scores being turned in left the Canadian far down the list.

Hogan didn't have his usual [illegible] match the putting game that gave him his 65 yesterday. [illegible] just wouldn't drop.

TED KENNEDY CLEARED IN DEATH OF BOY

TORONTO, Jan. 28.—(CP)—Ted Kennedy, captain of Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, has been cleared of blame in the death of 10-year-old Robert Armstrong, killed Nov. 19 when he and another boy were hit by Kennedy's automobile.

A coroner's jury blamed the accident, in which the second lad, Harold Shepherd, 13, suffered fractures to both legs, on weather conditions.

33rd Annual ACA 'Spiel Draws Entry of 118 Rinks

Neither secretary Jim McCool, nor his assistant, Tom Bones, was for singing the blues last night as they reported 118 rinks, including 58 from outside points, raring to go in the Alberta Curling Association's annual bonspiel, scheduled to get underway Monday morning.

"Sure, we're down from last year," longtime secretary McCool admitted. "But not as many as Calgary."

Seems that while entries in the ACA 'spiel are off 27 rinks from the 1949 list of 145 starters, the Cowtown rock carnival suffered even more.

CALGARY, TOO

"They had 234 last year," Bones supplied. "This year they were down to 152."

Both were definite that the cold weather of the past six weeks, and no other factor, was [illegible] for the [illegible] of entries. A few days back it had been suggested that the draw in use at the local 'spiel was meeting with [illegible] particularly from outside rinks.

"According to 'your' paper," secretary McCool needled, "guess we're lucky to have any entries."

All in all it was a busy night at headquarters in the Macdonald hotel. Entry lists were choked off at 8:00 o'clock, following which the first two draws for Monday were made up.

KICKOFF AT 9:00 MONDAY

Play opens in the Edmonton Motors trophy competition at 9:00 a.m., with the visitors' event (Calgary Brewery) due to get underway on the 12:00 noon draw.

In all there are 15 competitions, including secondaries.

Skip Cliff Manahan, longtime peer of curlers in these parts, and Grand Challenge winner in the 1949 'spiel, again is back in the lists. He 'opens' against Dr. Brown, Alberta Avenue club, on Monday's first draw. The Manahan-Dr. Brown clash is scheduled for sheet 12 at the Edmonton rink.

Bonspiel officials will have 38 sheets of ice at their disposal, including the 16 artificial ice sheets at the Granite and Edmonton clubs.

PLAN SPECIALS TO BANFF

Learn-to-Ski Campaign Heads Week-End Sport

[illegible] campaign gets underway today, and is expected to be the largest organized ski campaign ever held in the city, according to Jack Reilly, who is in charge.

Classes were scheduled to get underway this afternoon at Municipal, Grassy and Highlands hill. Those teaching the do's and don'ts will be:

At Grassy: Bob Hyde, Flo Fishleigh, Gerry Godwin, Hugh Goodman, Ken Kanders and Louise Sheppard.

At Municipal: Johnny Gaba, Jimmy Greer, Bruce Allsopp, [illegible] Pirie, Don Hardy and Roy Baird.

At Highlands: Barney Graham, Harry Hewke, Ted Wentschke, [illegible] Willey, Bill MacIntosh, Joe Roth and Al Campbell.

What won't they think of next! One of the latest gadgets in the skiing world is a hand warmer. Believe it or not, it's a small container fueled with gasoline or naphtha and will give off heat for 20 hours. The manufacturers claim "carried in pocket or mittens it [illegible] to the [illegible]

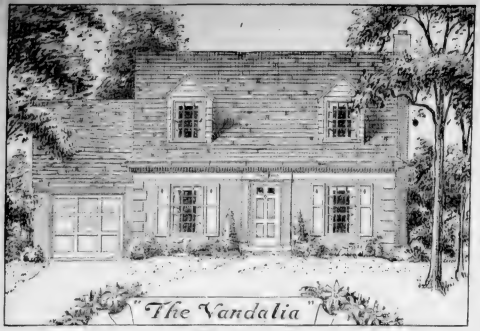
FLO FISHLEIGH . . . A Tutor

The first of two Ski-Specials to Banff will be chugging out of Edmonton a week from tonight. Latest reports from Pat Patenaude (the man behind the Ski-Special scene) show that the train is filling up fast.

Four of the six sleepers already have been booked and officials have handled several hundred applications. Note, Reservations must be made and ticket picked up by 5:00 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 2.

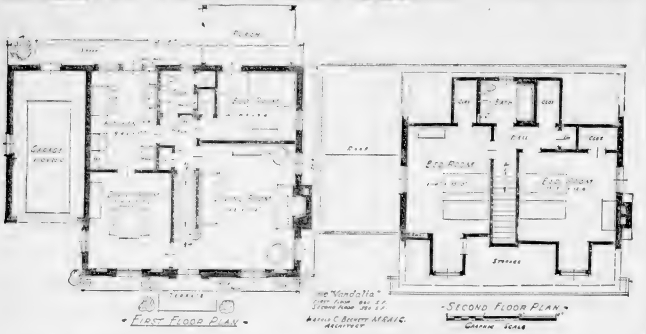
Reason for only two trips to Canada's Alps (Banff) this year, is that the facilities will be overcrowded during the better part of February and early March due to the Dominion and North American championships, scheduled for Feb 25-Mar. 5.

Hats off to Gresvig Co. for donating a trophy to Edmonton Ski Club for Class B jumpers.



THE "VANDALIA"—On lots of limited frontage and when three bedrooms are required, Cape Cod Colonial provides an admirable solution. The above plan is 30 feet wide by 28 feet 8 inches deep, thus providing a maximum of area with a minimum of enclosing walls. The plan arrangement is efficient and quite spacious. A first floor bedroom can be used as a den if required, with two large sized sleeping rooms on the second floor. A first floor toilet is planned which concentrates plumbing around one vent stack. The attached garage is convenient and the total over-all width makes this house suitable for a 50 foot lot. Exterior indicated in brick with clean cut and simple detail.

This is another in The Bulletin series of livable homes by Harold C. Beckett, architect, Windsor.



Plans Accompany Permit Request

Home Builders Must Furnish Particulars Set Out in List

By Art Etter

This week's suggestion from the city architect and building inspector's office will save prospective home-builders extra Civic Block journeys in search of a building permit.

Building inspectors have prepared a list of minimum dimensions and information which must appear on plans before a permit can be issued.

Here they are:

Site Plan—1. Site width; 2. Site length; 3. Front yard (minimum 20 feet); 4. Side yard (minimum 10 per cent of site width); 5. Rear yard (minimum 35 feet); 6. Street or avenue in front of property; 7. Lot, block, subdivision; 8. Show north direction.

Floor Plan—1. Full outside dimensions; 2. Room sizes (bylaw 1081); 3. Hallways and vestibules; 4. Bathrooms—location of fixtures; 5. Chimney and fireplaces; (Chimney must be one inch from all woodwork), (Fireplace—if electric note: if gas, note: 4 inch glazed tile flue, enclosed in two layers gypsum lath, 4 inch brick core); 6. Stairs—rise, tread, head room, handrails, width — bylaw 1081. 7. Direction and size of ceiling joist.

Elevations—1. Front; 2. Rear; 3. Right side; 4. Left side; 5. Show roof drain to storm sewer or sanitary sewer; 6. Window sizes (bylaw 1081); 7. Sizes of lintels or headers over windows.

Cross Section—Full cross section detail as follows: 1. Roof-ceiling joist sizes — rafter sizes — bracing sizes; 2. Interior partitions—studs, plates, finish; 3. Outer walls—studs, interior and exterior finish; 4. Floor joist and sub-floor, finish floor; 5. Basement walls—sizes and footings; 6. Beam sizes or bearing wall; 7. Post—sizes; 8. Basement floor.

Basement Plan — 1. Walls and footings; 2. Windows and sizes; 3. Beams and posts—sizes and footings; 4. Chimney footings and size; 5. Floor joists and bridging; 6. Clear beam span; 7. Clear joist span.

Officials point out that restricted areas are excepted from these requirements. Special conditions apply for restricted areas.

Proof of ownership of property must be supplied before the permit is granted.

On June 24, 1615, Fathers Jamay and Le Caron celebrated the first Roman Catholic mass in the province of Quebec.

Harbor Estimates

Supplementary estimates tabled in the House of Commons provide for a total of $4,000,000 to be spent on federal government improvements to B.C. harbors and wharves, and on federal buildings and dyking.

In 1948, 73 Canadians died from poliomyelitis.

Half Canadian Homes Still Lack Bath-Tubs

MONTREAL, Jan. 28.—Canadians have little right to boast about their so-called higher standard of living, Gerald H. Dixon, general manager of the Canadian Institute of Plumbing and Heating, stated in an interview here today commenting on National Health Week from Jan. 29 to February 4.

"Even though we have advanced our private and public health to a high level through modern sanitation, we must realize that today in Canada more than two dwellings in five still use outside facilities, and half have neither bath-tub nor shower," said the spokesman for the national trade association.

Mr. Dixon pointed out that it was only necessary to review the 1948 government survey reports, which are the latest available, to learn that 50 per cent of Canadian homes do not enqoy the advantages of a bath-tub; 54 per cent are with- [illegible]

NO SUPPORT YET

[illegible] this country are stilll without a bath-tub for Canadians to start [illegible] in terms of tapering off of production and employment. So, particularly during Health Week, let us remember those people before we start patting ourselves on the back about our 'hign' standard of living."

HOSE STOPS HYDRANT PIPE FROM BURSTING

If an outdoor water hydrant cannot be protected from freezing, a plugged length of rubber tubing placed inside the vertical pipe will keep the latter from bursting.

Cut the tubing to the longest length possible and plug both ends tightly. Then slip the tubing in the pipe where it will take up the expansion of the water as it freezes.

Record Shipload

A shipload of more than 2 million feet of B.C. Douglas Fir was unloaded in December at Camden, New Jersey, and Philadelphia. This is a record British Columbia lumber shipment.

Licence Granted

A forest management licence covering 100,000 acres in Quatsino Sound area was recently approved for the B. C. Pulp and Paper Co., Ltd., by the provincial cabinet.

CALL IT Treason

By George Howe

Synopsis: By foot and by bus "Happy" the idealistic young German corporal, now in the pay of the American Seventh Army, is making his way over the first leg of his 400 kilometers on the way to an icy crossing of the Rhine. Dropped in Germany to find the whereabouts of the German 9th Flak and 25th Infantry Division, he knows that his parachute jump has already been reported to the papers. Two other "traitorous" Joes, the "Tiger" and "Paluka" were dropped from the same plane. They headed for a bunker in Mannheim. On the reports made by these three may depend the lives of thousands of American soldiers waiting to crash into Germany. Now go on with the story—

CHAPTER NINE

Happy knew the engineer must think it curious for him to have sat with the newspaper folded in his pocket, unread, for two hours. At the same time he could not appear to have read it already, because if it told about the spy he had not been indignant soon enough. He pulled the single sheet uncomfortably from his pocket and started to read. Luckily, the story was not yet in the press, so the engineer related it himself as he had heard it on the radio, while Happy shook his head in indignation.

Herr Leopold Fidl, he said, the air-raid warden of Bobing, had seen a plane drop a parachute. Rather than waste time on what seemed like a useless hunt, Herr Fidl, though infirm, had walked fifteen kilometers to announce the news to the Kommandantur at Schongau. He had recognized the plane as American, and suspected that the spy might be headed southward toward the Austrian border.

Southward, thought Happy; Herr Fidl is trying to protect me. Anyway the Kommandantur had called for an alert in all directions and was sending a posse with dogs to comb the region where the plane had circled. Turn in all suspicious persons, it ordered, no matter how clear their identity might appear.

When Happy finished the paper he offered it to the engineer. "Your spy wouldn't learn much from reading this paper." He grinned. "And I don't believe he'd learn much from travelling this road."

"No news is good news for the Allgau," the engineer said solemnly. "But if he were riding this bus—and he might be, you know—he would have seen the Stalag. He may be reconnoitering to raid it, the way Skorzeny rescued Mussolini from the cliff in Italy. I don't trust—"

The Enemy Is Listening

Happy put his hand on the engineer's sleeve. He pointed to the cardboard sign tacked across the front of the cab. It read Der Feind Hort Mit.

"The enemy is listening, you know."

The engineer grimaced and smiled. "You're right. My wife tells me I talk too much anyhow."

Happy went back to sleep. The bus plodded along the snowy forest road, stopping each few kilometers to drop or pick up passengers.

It was five o'clock and almost dark before they crossed the steel bridge to Kempten. The soldiers stepped down to the curb. The driver checked each man off on her pad.

She looked at Happy. "Corporal Steinberg, Schongau to Kempten?"

"Yes, Fraulein Scharfuhrerin."

Already there were five who remembered Corporal Steinberg and could identify him; the warden and the bus driver, the two standing soldiers, and the engineer.

In one day he had traversed the base of his Z. There was not much to report from this stretch: the PW cage, a few troop locations from the mail sacks. But even negative information was useful. It would be news that there was little troop movement in the Allgau, and no bombing damage.

From Kempten the main double track turns north toward the heart of Germany, with a good highway parallel to the railroad. It was up this highway, the bar of his Z, that Happy was to search for his two divisions. It passes through Memmingen and Ulm and Aalen. At Crailsheim it turns west, like the cap of the Z, hits the Neckar at Heilbronn, and descends it until the river flows into the Rhine at Mannheim.

Joes Briefed To Break Trail

Every Joe was briefed to break his trail, whether he believed himself suspected or not. The station at Kempten was none too soon for Happy, who on his first day had already been noticed. It was not practical for the Team to make two Soldbucher in different names, for the forging of a Soldbuch is a long process. So they would issue two sets of travel orders in the same name, but for opposite destinations.

Herr Fidl and the bus driver would remember he was Corporal Steinberg; they would also remember he was headed for Bregenz. Rolled up in Happy's spare socks was the other travel order, detaching him from Bregenz on four days' convalescent leave, then to report to his new regiment via Mannheim. With it was a false seal of the Bregenz hospital and revolving date stamp. The paper and the seal were hot; he would have to use them soon or throw them away. Kempten was certainly not too soon. He decided to get out that night, so that when the hunt to the west began he would already be headed north.

The transport office was usually in the station at important railroad towns. Happy pushed open the curtained glass door to the ticket room. On the landing of the double stairs a sergeant stood inside a circular desk.

The sergeant was stamping the travel papers of a long line of soldiers.

"Forwarded, forwarded!" growled the sergeant. "That's what I do all day long; just stamp 'weitergeleitet' on other men's papers.

"You Twenty-fifth Infantry are going to Aalen tonight," the sergeant called out through the loudspeaker. Happy heard the division number, but did not turn his head. "The train will be along in an hour."

Happy Ponders His Situation

Happy strolled over to the crowd around the bulletin board. There was an announcement issued that day. It warned all servicemen to watch for spies, and reported that one had been seen near Schongau. A description would be posted later.

Happy wondered whether Fidl was laughing to himself way back in his village, playing with him like a cat with a tethered mouse, knowing that since he had his name and destination in his mind, he could pounce on him at will, anywhere in the Reich, with the long arm of the Gestapo.

He went into the troop latrine. He locked the door. Unbuttoning his tunic, he drew from his wallet the first trip ticket, from Munich to Bregenz. He had not needed to show it, but it had served its purpose by being ready to be shown. He chewed it to a ball, then spat it down between his feet. From his knapsack he unrolled the alternate, shipping him from Bregenz to the front. He dated it with the revolving date stamp: 17 Feb. 45. Someone was knocking impatiently on the door. Happy took a chance—at worst he could pretend to have dropped it—and threw the date stamp and seal into the drain, and pulled the chain. Luckily they all passed the trap. He strolled back into the waiting room. He had broken the trail.

He found a corner where his medical brassard would be hidden against the wall, for if Fidl should denounce him, that red cross might blow his identity at once. He sat down, his head fell down between his shoulders and he was asleep.

Sergeant Is Helpful

When he awoke the waiting room was almost empty. A hand was shaking his shoulder. His terror was like waking out of a nightmare, but he was waking into one. It was the crippled transport sergeant who shook him.

"Where are you headed for, Junge?"

"On four days convalescent leave, Herr Feldwebel, then to my regiment via Mannheim. The 136th Mountain."

The sergeant smiled. "I don't suppose you want to hurry too fast. God knows when you could get a train to the north anyway. The last one out of here has gone. I can get you put up at the club across the street if you want. You look tired."

"No," said Happy, shaking himself, "I'm not tired. A little weak after the pneumonia, that's all. If there was an inn up the road it would be a relief from canteens and army food. Do you know a little inn somewhere, quiet, like peacetime? I don't know this country."

He sighed. The sergeant sighed again too. "Look, if you can pick up a ride outside, get off at the next town. That is Dietmannsried, nine kilometers up. There is a nice Gasthaus there, just beyond the town, and the innkeeper will put you up if you give my name: Sergeant Hugel. Here, I'll give you a note to him. He knows my writing."

He scribbled on a scrap of paper. To Happy's relief, he did not ask his name.

"I think I'll walk if it's only that far. They want me to get air and exercise after being in the hospital."

Happy pushed open the swinging door, trying not to drag his feet. After the plane and the bus, Happy was so tired he could hardly walk, but somehow he managed to make the five miles to Dietmannsried. He had no trouble finding the inn. The moon had risen; it lighted the sign across the shuttered stucco housefront; Zum Ochsen—At the Sign of the Ox—Emil Liebert, Proprietor.

Emil Liebert opened the door to his knock after a long wait, in his nightcap with a candle in his hand. He read the note from the sergeant. He beckoned Happy to the desk and made him sign the register. Only two other guests had signed that day; Gunther and Hubermann, secretary and constable of the Criminal Police.

The innkeeper took his candle from the counter and led him up the stairs to a room at the back of the house. He shut the bedroom door behind him. What time will you start off in the morning?

"I have been sick for a while Will you let me sleep till I wake up?"

Unexpectedly the innkeeper patted him on the back. "That's all right, flier. Come down whenever you feel like it. Schlafen Sie wohl."

"Sleep well," Happy repeated. He hung his damp overcoat on the wooden pegs set in the wall. He stripped down to his shirt and shorts. He looked behind the bed, but there was no microphone. He sank into the yielding feather bed and blew out the candle. In a moment he was asleep, for the third time since he had come home.

A 17-TON prefabricated concrete roof is lifted, without hooks, bolts, magnetism or glue, and set in place on a house in Norfolk, Va. Air suction alone, or vacuum, enables the crane to pick up and move the heavy slab. The device, called a vacuum lifter, removes all air from top of the slab and lifts it evenly, without danger of cracking the concrete. As a safety factor, the inventor says, the slab could not be released for five minutes even if vacuum pipes should become disconnected.

Industry Evolves Better Methods

New Weather-Tighting Tape; Handy Pipe Label on Market

"Arno-Tape" is caulking-type material for weather-tighting pre-fab houses and other new construction. It is a special pile fabric heavily impregnated with amber color moisture-proof compound containing inhibitors against mildew, rot, termites and other insects.

Said to be clean-handling, self-sealing and labor saver. Comes in 100 ft. rolls, one to three inches wide. Resistant to aging or drying out, tight-sealing properties are not affected by temperature changes and structural vibrations, New York maker says.

Said to have a water-vapor barrier factor and to provide long-lasting protection against water, moisture, wind and cold air from outside and against interior heat losses.

Fruit Vending Machine: Refrigerated fruit vending machine announced by Los Angeles company, dispenses fruit chilled to proper controlled temperature. Unit is 6 ft. tall, 45 in. wide and 24 in. deep and features frost-free picture window. Will hold 208 pieces of fruit—apples, oranges, peaches, pears, or even grapes and cherries, in air-tight containers.

Markers for small pipe: To meet demand for a label which quickly identifies small diameter pipe and conduit, the W. H. Brady Co. Milwaukee, Wis., has developed a self-sticking pipe marker of the wrap-around type. It comes in strips nine inches long, with the name of the material in the pipe clearly printed in bold type.

The identification is printed 18 times on a nine-inch strip and one strip can be made to do for two or three small-diameter conduits. Brody Company's Canadian representative is Northern Electric Co. Ltd.

Baseboard Radiation: Vapor Car Heating Co. of Canada Limited, Montreal, announces a new cover for use with "Heal" baseboard radiation. Said to further enhance the beauty of interiors and to keep the equipment as inconspicuous as possible.

The new cover, while aiding in improving interior decoration, is simple to wash off and permits easy access for periodical internal cleaning. Further data may be obtained from the Canadian representatives.

FOUR PANDAS mean pandemonium in one of feature acts of "Ice Cycles of 1950." Pappa, mamma and two panda children make act one of the hits of show. Four skaters will make even rafters at Edmonton Gardens shake with merriment. "Ice Cycles of 1950" will be in Edmonton Gardens from Jan. 30 to Feb. 4.

Big Ice Show Opens Here Monday For Week's Run

Adagio dancing on the stage is poetry in motion but it becomes even more sensational when presented on ice. With the artists on skates, the work has a smooth flowing motion that enhances the grace. But it is more difficult to master as Gene Theslof and Vivi-Anne Hulten, adagio stars of "Ice Cycles of 1950," opening at the Edmonton Gardens Monday, present it.

In ordinary adagio, the girl who is lifted usually weighs around 90 pounds and never more than 100.

Such a slight girl would not be strong enough for the rigors of skating, so Gene selected Miss Hulten who weighs 127 pounds and is one of the world's outstanding women skaters.

Vivi-Anne won numerous international honors, including the Swedish women's championship for several years and the Olympic crown in free skating.

The Theslof-Hulten routines are all original work which they have taken more than two years to perfect.

They provide one of the highlights in the all-new Fifth Edition of "Ice Cycles."

The chief feature is Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs, the all-time favorite fantasy of the screen, by special exclusive arrangement with Walt Disney. All the lovable characters (and those less lovable) are presented together with the charming birds and animals of the forest.

SURE BCG CAN STAMP OUT TUBERCULOSIS

TORONTO, Jan. 28.—(CP)—Dr. Armand Frappier of Montreal said today that universal use of the anti-tubercular vaccine BCG "should practically stamp out tuberculosis."

Dr. Frappier said "twenty-five per cent of Quebec babies now are vaccinated with it and the province gives a grant toward it. The vaccine is not expensive and is in good supply."

Censors Seen Getting Worse In News Block

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Jan. 28 —AP — Frank J. Starzel general manager of the Associated Press said in an interview here that news censorship in great portions of the world "will get worse before it gets better."

Starzel came here to attend the annual mid-winter meeting of the Kentucky Press Association and a meeting of Kentucky members of the AP.

"The trouble," Starzel said, "is that there is a great area of the world where the principle of free reporting is not understood."

Attlee Nominated

LONDON, Jan. 28.—(Reuters)—Prime Minister Attlee last night was formally adopted as Labor candidate for the London constituency of West Walthamstow, regarded as a safe Labor seat in the House of Commons.

Queen's Installs Atom Smasher

KINGSTON, Jan. 28.—(CP)—A 70,000,000 volt synchrotron, the most powerful machine of its kind to leave the United States, was formally dedicated today. Known as an atom smasher the machine was built by the General Electric Company for use in Queen's University special high-energy X-ray research.

Cartel Control Planned In West

BONN, Germany, Jan. 28.—(Reuters)—The West German government is preparing a law which will bring under control cartels, trusts and "giant enterprises of a monopolistic character" the West German Economics Minister, Professor Ludwig Erhard, told parliament today.

Tax Agreement Vital, Says Frost

Otherwise It Is Nonsense To Try For Social Security Scheme

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Jan. 28.—(CP)—Premier Frost of Ontario said last night that it is nonsense to claim that there can be no investment program or social security scheme on a national scale without a tax agreement between the federal and provincial governments.

The premier was addressing the fourth annual conference of Canadian managing editors. He quoted Justice Minister Garson as saying in recent speeches that there must be a proper division of government functions and taxing powers between federal and provincial jurisdictions before investment, social security and similar problems can be settled.

CONFERENCE HINTED

But in Ontario, said Premier Frost, there is enormous public investment which would easily be made greater if the federal government felt the employment situation needed priming through further public works.

"The matter of integrating Ontario's public investment program with that of the dominion is a matter which can be adjusted by two or three representatives of our governments sitting around the table for a day."

Premier Frost said more than $25,000,000 is being spent each month on capital projects by the province of Ontario, Ontario municipalities, Ontario Hydro and other subsidiary commissions.

SUGGESTS JOB PARLEY

These programs can be expanded in co-operation with the federal government in order to cope with the unemployment problem.

"We are prepared to discuss these matters with the federal authorities at any time."

"If action in unemployment problems is needed, let us get together right now," he said.

Declaring there is no need to change the character and nature of the constitution, Premier Frost said: "The fact is, that if Dominion-Provincial conferences were called frequently on specific items, order would evolve out of things in which there has been disorder because of a lack of co-ordination between the efforts of the governments.

"We should emphasize not the difficulties but the practical means that can be taken quickly to meet problems as they arise.

"What we need is to introduce a little spirit of co-operation, goodwill, determination and the machinery to get things done. As far as I am concerned I would like to start right now."

Hog Guarantee Asked In Ontario

LINDSAY, Jan. 28—(CP)—More than 600 farmers attended a protest meeting held yesterday by Victoria County Hog Producers' Association. It was decided to ask the government for floor price legislation. The government was asked to guarante that the present contract price of $32.50 would be continued until the end of 1950.

Needs Pistols Visiting Toronto

TORONTO, Jan. 28—(CP)—Thaddeum Gabrielezyk, 29, of Hamilton, is pretty impressed with Toronto. Testimony at his trial for possession of two unregistered weapons was that he told police: "I wouldn't enter Torouto without a gun — for protection." He was remanded to Feb. 3 for sentence.

LOVE CRUISE comes to end for Billy Daniels, 35-year-old Negro New York night club singer, and his 21-year-old white bride, former Martha Braun, as liner Italia docks in Chatham. They were married Jan. 9 in New York.

ACTH Stops Attack Of Gout

CHICAGO, Jan. 28—(AP)—Evidence that one or two injections of extremely-scarce Acth can stop an attack of acute gout was reported today in the journal of the American Medical Association. Acth is the new hormone that has proved effective against a long list of diseases that defied other treatment. It is so scarce it has been used only experimentally.

Hannam Sees 'Major Crisis' In Agriculture

OTTAWA, Jan. 27—(CP)—Unless action is taken to head it off, "a major crisis" is developing in Canadian agriculture, Dr. H. H. Hannam said here.

The president of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture called for greater use of government price-support for farm products.

Tumbling farm prices, he told the Dairy Farmers Association of Canada yesterday, might mean lower prices for housewives. But there is a "direct conection between tumbling farm prices and increasing ranks of the unemployed."

SURPLUS TOO BIG

Canada is suffering from abundance, he continued. She is suffering from loss of export markets and from growing United States surpluses.

"The market outlook for Canadian farmers at this time is definitely discouraging," said Dr Hannam. Net farm income in 1949 dropped $125,000,000 from the previous year.

"In other words, the situation is much the same as at the beginning of other drepression periods. And unless adequate action is taken to head it off, a major crisis is developing in Canadian agriculture."

Dr. Hannam defined a depression as a "period of famine of purchasing power."

"If we do a poor job of handling farm abundance, then definitely we are heading for a depresion. On the other hand, if we do a better job than we now are doing, there is no need for a depresion at this time."

In the last two years, there had been a good balance between the three major groups in Canada, industry and business, labor and agriculture. This balance was the secret of prosperity.

If an estimate is made of wage rates and what they will buy, people will find that food prices are lower than in previous years.

BY HAROLD R FOSTER
Synopsis: THE LONG DRAGON-SHIP GLIDES SWIFTLY SEAWARD AND THE TWO ARMED SHIPS THAT FOLLOW ARE LEFT BEHIND. BOLTAR SIGHS, FOR THE MERCHANTS OF ANY TOWN HE VISITS ALWAYS SEEM SO UNFRIENDLY WHEN HE LEAVES. THEN HE ORDERS A SHELTER CONSTRUCTED FOR HIS NOBLE PASSENGERS.
THEY TURN NORTHWARD UP THE ROCKY COAST OF CALEDONIA. THE GREAT SAIL IS FURLED AND OARSMEN BEND TO THE SWEEPS FOR THE WINDS ARE UNFAVORABLE.
DAYS PASS. STORMS BUFFET THEM, RAIN AND FOG OBSCURE THE LAND.
THERE ARE ALSO DAYS, SUNNY AND CRISP WITH THE APPROACH OF WINTER, THAT BRING BACK VAL'S STRENGTH AND HE CAN EXERCISE HIS STIFFENED MUSCLES.
YOUNG ARF CRAWLS FROM HIS QUARTERS, PALE AND SHAKY BUT, FOR THE FIRST TIME SINCE LEAVING LAND, HE BELIEVES HE WILL LIVE.
COMES A DAY WHEN WINDS ARE FAVORABLE. THE SAIL IS SET AND THE OARS RACKED. THEN THE MEN PUT THEIR GEAR IN ORDER AND CAREFULLY SHARPEN THEIR SWORDS.
VAL IS SUSPICIOUS OF THIS ACTIVITY. "CAN IT BE THAT YOU PLAN TO RISK OUR NECKS ON SOME PLUNDERING RAID?" HE ASKS.
"I WILL HAVE YOU KNOW, SIR VALIANT, THAT I AM A RESPECTABLE BUSINESSMAN!" SNAPS BOLTAR WITH GREAT DIGNITY. "I PLAN NOTHING MORE THAN ONE MORE BUSINESS DEAL BEFORE CROSSING THE SEAS TO THULE!"
NEXT WEEK - That Business Deal.

Smoke and Shadows in Winter Sun

WHEN SUN SHINES on clear, frosty day, winter's beauty seems to make up for all its cold. Shadows on snow and smoke against clear blue skies can perform miracles to bolster morale of even those who think spring will never come. Such scene was snapped by Photographer Eric Bland when he took to wandering around Edmonton power house.

Big Jungle Cats Waging Strange Battle To Live

By Barney McKinley
Bulletin Staff Writer

A strange grim battle for existence is going on this winter at the lonely snow-covered wild animal farm of Edmonton carnival man A. J. Ody, near Oliver.

It's the battle of native tropical animals to cope with the frigid atmosphere of a northern Alberta winter.

At times the struggle becomes a roaring scramble as half a ton of big jungle cats, quartered on the farm, voice their puzzled protest against the bite of the Canadian northlands coldest winter.

ARE KEPT APART

The three lions, royal Bengal tiger and African leopard housed in a straw padded unheated barn on the isolated farm, are only gradually winning the battle for life in an environment thousands of miles removed from the steaming heat of their native lands.

If they were not kept in separate paddocks they would tear each other apart in their present mood, owner Ody, recently returned from a four-day stay at the farm, related today.

"My sister is frightened since we brought the two new lions last week," he said. "Sometimes their roaring seems to shake the walls."

FUR IS THICKER

"We nearly lost the leopard," he said. "It came straight to the farm here from a cage that was kept at 70 above. Now it's actually beginning to grow heavier fur."

He said that he planned to take more animals, including a trained chimpanzee, to the farm.

Incidentally, the animal farm operations are apparently well within the law.

A spokesman for the attorney-general's office said he had never heard of a regulation governing the type of stock a man can keep on his place.

So if you are bashfully concealing a crocodile or a kangaroo in the utility room, you can now feel free to move it outdoors.

And if you want to consult Mr. Ody you'll find him at the zoo.

He likes to get away from his work once in a while.

Calgarians Offer Play

Suspense-thriller "Laura" was staged at convocation hall last night by Calgary Civic Theatre players.

Second of the provincial Drama Festival series, the production left critical spectators with a weak-kneed first act but developed strength, crispness and pace as the story unfolded.

Adjudicator Maxwell Wray actor-producer of London, pointed his finger of criticism at the under-development of the play, lack of projection to the audience.

"Both are typically Canada drama weaknesses," he said.

TITLE ROLE

"Excellent duologue work, particularly of the title role Laura, and Waldo added fine measure of force and effectiveness, enthused Mr. Wray. Success factor of "Laura" is perfect timing and tonight's production missed the mark ever so slightly at both suspense curtains."

"An enjoyable performance could have been a better stage presentation with more punch and projection" he said.

Cast of players from Calgary included Evelyn Powlan Lawson as the lovely career girl Laura, Gordon Forbes as the young police detective, and T. E. Snelgrove as the psychopathic connoisseur, Waldo Lydecker.

Others of the cast were Kenneth Pickard, Anne Windsor, Gilbert Hurst, Vera McGuinness.

R. H. Gibb directed the production.

Workshop 14 of Calgary will present "The Rivals" at Convocation hall tonight. Final adjudication will be given.

Mrs. E. Dean Dies, Aged 94

Edmonton lost another of its pioneers when Mrs. Edward Dean, 10231-107 street, died at her home yesterday. She was 94 and was pre-deceased by her husband Dec 15, 1943.

Born in Ireland, the former Jenny Keating came as an infant with her parents to Clinton, Ont. She was married to Edward Dean, of Fruitland, Ont., Jan. 1, 1873, and the family arrived in Edmonton from London, Ont., April 1, 1894.

Mr. and Mrs. Dean resided on a farm in the Turnip Lake district, four miles north of Jasper avenue, until moving into the city in 1906.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Albert Davey, 10307-115 street, and Mrs. H. W. Ross, 9825-106 street, and three sons, Herbert C., of Vegreville; Artur E., 11522-100 avenue, and Harold J., 11024-84 avenue; eight grandchildren and eight great-gandchildren.

Funeral service will be held from Howard & McBride's funeral chapel at 2 p.m. Monday.

Edmonton's Dress Ranks With Worst

By Stanley Burke
Bulletin Staff Writer

Edmonton is one of the worst-groomed cities in Canada in the opinion of Paul Pierre, suave Swiss who runs one of the city's best known hair dressing salons.

Lack of [illegible] residents is reflected in the ungroomed appearance of [illegible] he believes.

But the deeply tanned [illegible] with the throaty continental accent is not complaining. His remarks were made [illegible] tion on [illegible]

"It is the inevitable result of the development of [illegible]" he said. "Culture is a thing which develops slowly. All of this will come in time. In Montreal, in New York, people are more conscious of their appearance than they are in the west. So it will be some day here.

"I came here 11 years ago from Montreal intending to stay only for a short time," he said, shrugging his shoulders. "Well, I am still here."

Paul Pierre w[illegible] olive-green, short-sleeved jacket [illegible] the medical kind with the big white buttons on the shoulder. The short sleeves showed a pair of tanned, hairy, definitely masculine arms. His trousers were conservative, dark grey, flannels.

"The men are probably the worst [illegible]," he said sternly. "The trouble with the North American male is that he's afraid of being called a sissy. He'll go to almost any extreme to avoid being thought [illegible]

PERMANENTS FOR MEN

"Now in Europe and places like Montreal, men are not afraid to have manicures and many of them have permanents. And don't make any mistake about it, they are real men—the he-man type, you might say."

"Some day it will be the same here. Some day men in Edmonton will pay attention to their grooming.

"You aren't afraid to shave off [illegible] naturally on [illegible] tailor puts a little padding in the shoulders of your suit.

"Then why should you mind having your hair waved to make it more attractive?"

JETS WINGING TOWARD NORTH

Four Vampire jet planes were expected to race over Edmonton this afternoon en route to Exercise Sweetbriar in the far north.

From RCAF station at St. Hubert, Que., the machines were advance guard of 12 craft bound for the exercise. They refuel at Fort William, Rivers, Man., and Edmonton on the way.

Scouts Present Edmonton Play

Nearly 200 people gathered at Holy Trinity Church last night to witness the 6th Edmonton Scout Troop's presentation of "Hangman Get Your Rope."

Written in Edmonton by Peter Greaves, the show was produced by P. Cecil Cummings, of the ABC Players.

Outstanding in the leading role of a Scotland Yard inspector was Brian Cummings. Others in the cast were: Kelvin Wallace, David Hemphill, Terry Mahood, Steward Long, Eddie Turner, and Dennis Mann.

ALCOHOLIC 'MYTHS'

Individual Is Inferior When Under 'Influence'

Sex activity is not increased with the use of alcohol, Dr. M. J. Huston, dean of the faculty of pharmacy at the University of Alberta, told sixth annual convention of employes and managers of Hayward Lumber Company at Macdonald hotel.

Liquor causes a "loss of sex innovation and respect," continued the dean, but does not stimulate or increase the sexual urge or capabilities.

"Alcohol is subject to more misconception than anything else," said the dean, who described his function in addressing the group as being "myth busting."

"Liquor is not a stimulant, rather, it increases depression in much the same sense as ether does," said Dr. Huston. "The apparent stimulation is the result of release of the higher centres of the nervous system," continued the professor.

"While under the influence of alcohol an individual is always inferior," said Dr. Huston.

"Speech is often eloquent but insensible," he continued.

"Maximum effects of a drink will be obvious from one to two hours after the drink has been taken," he said.

Dr. Huston "exploded" the following beliefs: Alcohol is not a source of food; will not build body tissue; has no direct effect on the [illegible] to disease [illegible] will not shorten life expectancy [illegible] good for treatment of [illegible]

BUS SAVED FROM FIRE

Two young men from Vimy, Alta., are credited with saving the school bus at Clive from burning.

Robert Goin, 23, and his brother, Ian, 29, were driving home from Clive when they noticed the garage that housed the vehicle was burning.

The two forced their way in to the burning building and drove the bus through the flaming doors.

100 Engineers Guests At Dinner

More than 100 delegates attended a joint dinner of three allied engineering professions in Macdonald hotel last night.

Represented were members from Association of Professional Engineers of Alberta, Edmonton Branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada and Northern Alberta Branch of Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy.

Guest speaker was city barrister, Louis B. Hyndman, who spoke on his recent visit to Europe.

Welcoming the delegates for the province was the Hon. D. B. McMillan, minister of public works.

Edmonton Woman Grace Moir Dies

Former resident of Edmonton, Miss Grace L. Moir of 88 Lipton Street, Winnipeg, died in Winnipeg. Miss Moir was employed with the Bank of Toronto in Winnipeg. Surviving are two brothers, John of Edmonton, and Reg of Vancouver; three sisters, Miss Marilyn Moir of Los Angeles, Mrs. Bud Fassett of Burbank, and Mrs. T. W. Beaver of Edmonton.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 3:30 at Howard and McBride's chapel. Rev. Edgar Bailey will officiate.

CABLE KIBITIZERS

Cold Weather No Bar To Seeing Others Work

Crude oil, natural gas, coal, gold and earthworms are not the only things beneath the surface of the good earth of Edmonton.

Reckoned by stringing each wire end to end, lifelines of the City Telephone System extend hundreds of thousands of miles in a maze of grave-depth, labryinth channels.

And believe it or not the colder the weather the better the job in laying cable, says husky six-foot Leslie Kilpatrick, 11418-79 street, CTS line construction foreman.

Struggling to keep pace with the city's phenomenal business and residential growth, CTS has two crews engaged daily in laying cable, some with 600 pairs of wires and another type with 1,200 pairs.

Despite cold weather there are still a number of brave kibitzers who like to stand and watch a work project.

They are to be seen these days around the crew now engaged in stringing nearly 1,000 feet of [illegible] metal to the [illegible] Building near the CNR.

Hospital Reports Drop in Deficit

Study Course For Matrons

It will be back to school Monday for some 30 matrons and nurses from Alberta's small hospitals.

They will attend a course in hospital administration designed especially for the matrons of small hospitals and to be held in St John's College School of Nursing.

The "post graduate course for nurses" is being directed by the University of Alberta's faculty of medicine, the school of nursing and the university's department of extension. It is largely financed by a share of the $12,000 recently granted the province of the federal government.

It is aimed at helping staff of small hospitals to cope with the daily problems of hospital operation.

Some 30 [illegible] are expected to register at 9:30 a.m. Monday in St. John's College School of Nursing, where the lectures will be given by 30 experts.

CNR To Resume Coastal Service

Regular passenger train service to Vancouver is expected to be resumed by the CNR over the weekend, E. Skelding, superintendent of transportation Edmonton, announced today.

Lines in the Fraser Valley had nearly been cleared of snow slides, he said.

Extension Plans Must Be Finalized This Year

Royal Alexandra Hospital operations showed a December operating surplus of $1,430, which reduced the year's total deficit to $$98,677, Dr. D. R. Easton reported to last night's hospital board meeting.

This is $86,550 less than 194[illegible] and $102,323 less than the estimated 1949 deficit.

Cash income exceeded that of 1948 by $269,650, and was $118,500 more than estimated.

OPERATING COSTS HIGHER

Gross patient fees totalled $1,451,380, an increase of $352,000 over 1948, and $153,000 in excess of the estimate.

Cost of operation was $183,100 more than in 1948, "but in view of increased number of patient days this was to be expected" said Dr. Easton.

Main sources of increase were in [illegible] the larger number of patients. Salary increases were budgetted at $113,000, but actual increase was $132,000.

A deficit of $156,000 is being budgetted for 1950, in view of Alberta's general economic condition.

"During the past year Alberta had a poor crop year, and due to loss of the [illegible] markets, the price of farm products has markedly declined," said Dr. Easton.

MORE DEBTS EXPECTED

"It is anticipated that our occupancy [illegible] be [illegible] but that our collections will be off approximately 10 per cent," he said.

The board's number one project for 1950 must be to finalize projected $1,6[illegible],000 extension, said Dr. Easton. The building program was deferred [illegible]

Annual report on School of Nursing and Nursing Service was presented by Ida Johnson, RN, superintendent of Nurses.

Women's Aid annual report was submitted by Helene H. Millar, secretary.

Crash Risk On Hospital

While city fathers talk about moving Royal Alexandra hospital because of its proximity to the airport and resultant danger from [illegible] are doing something to relieve the financial risk.

The board last night approved additional insurance to protect the hospital against possible airplane crash for one year for an extra premium of $330.

World in Which We Live To Be U.K. Author's Theme

OXFORD, Eng.,—Joyce Cary, the 61-year-old British novelist, said today he planned to spend the rest of his life writing about "The World of Creative Imagination in Which We Live".

Cary, who has already spent [illegible] ular world and has written three books on his findings, (the third, "The Horse's Mouth" will be published in America, soon) said that he had enough material in his files for 17 more books.

"But I doubt whether I shall live long enough to write them" he said.

Cary takes about two years to write a book, and is presently working on a fourth book on the same 'imaginative' subject. He has called it "Prisoner of Grace".

Radio Fans Win Battle On Commercial

The helpless listener has finally won a battle against the hated radio commercial.

And—of all places—right in New York City.

Question of forcing music and advertising on listeners in public places is a hot issue in the advertising-delirious United States.

New York's Grand Central Terminal started broadcasting at travellers passing through the station. It was an experiment, and was worth $90,000 in revenue.

But New York commuters rose up in arms. "No privacy at all," they said. "Singing commercials are even following us to the trains."

So, to keep public good will, Grand Central is ending the broadcasting experiment—$90,000 or no $90,000.

In Washington, DC, public utilities commission has given the OK to music and advertising in street cars and buses. A lawyer is fighting the move, basing his case on the fact that streetcar travellers are a "captive audience" and haven't got a choice about listening to the programs.

ONE OF THE BEST

CBC Wednesday Night continues to be one of Canada's best shows with hundreds of thousands of U S listeners tuning in weekly because they can't stand American radio.

This week, Wednesday night will include poetry by D. H. Lawrence; an American folk opera, "Down in the Valley," by Kurt Weill, who wrote such Broadway hits as "Lady in the Dark," "One Touch of Venus," and "Knickerbocker Holiday"; and a bit of humor in the form of a rewrite of an old Stephen Leacock story, entitled "The Speculations of Jefferson Thorpe." Heard over CBX, times of the above items will be 8:30, 9:15 and 10 p.m.

This week's "In Search of Ourselves" sociology problem is titled, "What's Wrong with the Child?" and tells of a boy who had all the symptoms of a serious illness, but doctors could find nothing wrong with him. Tuesday night, CFRN, at 9:30.

It follows Science Reporter at 9 p.m. on CBX, when Gerald Anglin of Toronto will talk on jet propulsion and turbojets.

GOOD PROGRAMS

Do you like that full-of-fun Gay '90s music?

Then tune in on "Leicester Square", complete with soloists and Barbershop Quartet, Tuesday at 8.30 over CBX. Tunes to be heard include "Mister Dooley", "The Vamp", "Chewin' The Rag", etc.

Music lovers who liked baritone Morley Margolis when he sang here in September will have two chances to hear him tomorrow. Besides singing on his regular show "CIL Serenade" (CFRN 7 p.m.), he'll be on a [illegible] program with the Winnipeg Symphony [illegible] CBX [illegible].

Cold Weather May Hinder Piano Concert

Frances Bible's Edmonton concert was cancelled this week because the young New York soprano was delayed by the weather on the west coast.

Same thing may happen to Tuesday night's proposed concert by pianist Bela Boszormenyi-Nagy.

The Hungarian musician, now with the Royal Toronto Conservatory, is in Vancouver and unless he is fortunate enough to get air priority to Edmonton, his concert here will be cancelled.

Event is scheduled for the Masonic Temple at 8 p.m. Sponsoring organization is the Edmonton branch of the Alberta Registered Music Teachers' Association.

It is estimated that about 65 per [illegible] teurized for human consumption.

Erna Sack Sings Again On London Waxings

Coloratura soprano Erna Sack signed up with London Full Frequency Range Recordings some time ago, when her European Telefunken master recordings were sold to United States' Capitol Recordings.

Dyed-in-the-wool Sack fans will be interested to know that the supply of her new recordings for London have started to arrive in Edmonton.

The aging German singer, now living in Montreal, has re-cut some of her old tried-and-true numbers, so don't be disappointed if you check up and find out you already have some of the new releases.

Among those which have come to Edmonton in the past three weeks are:

"The Bell Song," from Delibes' "Lakme," sung in French with the New Symphony Orchestra conducted by Royalton Kisch. This cutting fills both sides of a 12-inch London FFRR record.

Rossini's "La Danza" (in Italian) and Ponce's "Estrellita" (in French) with the New Promenade Orchestra conducted by Hans May. On one 12-inch disc.

[illegible] "La Villanelle" (in French) and [illegible] "La Serenata" (in Italian) with the New Promenade Orchestra. On one 12-inch recording.

(What My Mother Wants to Know); Kern's "They Didn't Believe Me"; Kaper's "I Know, I Know, I Know." On Victor.

Other classics:

RCA Victor's recent album (three 12-inch discs) of Benjamin Britten's "A Ceremony of Carols," by Robert Shaw conducting the Victor Chorale of women's voices, with Laura Newell, harpist.

ON VICTOR

These 10 carols were composed in 1942 for treble voices and harp, using old English lyrics. Very nice.

Another recent Victor release is the album (three 10-inch recordings) titled "Onward Christian Soldiers and Other Beloved Hymns." Sung by the Victor Chorale, with organist Carl Weinrich, are the title hymn, and "Holy, Holy, Holy," "O God, Our Help in Ages Past," "All Creatures of Our God and King," "All People That on Earth Do Dwell," "Now the Day Is Over." Most of these are available on 45's as well.

Pianist Ania Dorman turns in a Grade A-Minus effort of Beetsshoven's "Ecossaises" and Mendelssohn's "Rondo Capriccioso in E." On a Victor Red Seal 12-inch single.

Columbia has released an abridged album of Franz Lehar's ever-popular "The Merrow Widow" with four 10-inch discs. Lehar's lovely melodies are sung by mezzo soprano Rise Stevens and tenor Dennis Morgan, with orchestra conducted by Max Rudolf and chorus directed by Dr. Charles Hirt.

Concert Boss Has Trials, Tribulations

Life For Edward Gee Just a Series of Headaches

"What to do to please the public" or: "I lived on aspirins."

If Celebrity Series director A. K. Gee of Winnipeg writes a book on how he made a success of the concert-booking business, the above will probably be the title of the publication.

Each year about this time, Mr. Gee goes to New York to book musicians for his winter music series in various Canadian cities.

And judging from the results of the vote taken at the Kenneth Spencer concert on what artists Edmontonians would like to hear next winter, he must end up tearing great handfuls of hair from his head and gibbering hopelessly.

For there hardly seems to be any accounting for taste, according to the poll.

Edmontonians seem to have voted strictly according to publicity, rather than according to musical calibre. The effect of movies and radio was apparent.

They also asked the impossible. Ballot was divided into five classes: women singers, male singers, pianists, violinists, and ensembles and special attractions.

TWO LEADERS

Only ones to poll half the vote in any class were Negro contralto Marian Anderson and the de Paur Infantry Chorus. That is understandable, for both have been here before, and both are excellent.

Movie, radio, and Metropolitan opera star Rise Stevens was ahead of Bidu Sayao in the soprano-contralto class, and Erna Sack got more votes than spendid soprano Ljuba Welitsch, who ended up 'way down on the list.

ANOTHER ITURBI

Take pianists. Amparo Iturbi (NOT Jose, but Jose's sister) led the list. She is practically nothing when it comes to such pianists as Alexander Brailowsky and Witold Malcuzynski, two of the greatest living pianists, yet she came first on the ballot list of 10 and Malcuzynski came last. But then, the name "Iturbi" is very familiar to movie-goers and radio listeners.

In the tenor-baritone class, radio really showed its effect. James Melton and Thomas L. Thomas were up top, but such magnificent singers as Italo Tajo and Guiseppe di Stefano were 'way down.

Canada's Morley Margolis, who sang here in September and has his Sunday night radio show CIL Serenade, was third.

Margolis is just starting up the success ladder, but Edmontonians have heard of him and they evidently haven't heard of di Stefano, one of the finest tenors of today.

The "impossible" was mentioned above. Celebrity voters were asked to name their own artists if they wanted to add to the printed list.

AIMING HIGH

Among suggestions were Jascha Heifetz and Nelson Eddy, whose fee for a one-night stand here would keep you and me for a whole year. Todd Duncan and Ezio Pinza were suggested, too. But they are both busy on Broadway in hit shows that pay them several thousand dollars a week.

That's the difficulty with so many artists—they are busy with everything from radio shows in Hollywood to the Met in New York and they can't possibly tour.

One voter even suggested England's famous Sadler's Wells Ballet. Why, Edmonton doesn't even have a place for a ballet company to play, let alone being able to find enough customers to make such an expensive visit possible financially.

Anyway, the results of the poll have been sent to Mr. Gee in New York, and he'll be busy during the next few weeks trying to please music-lovers for next season.

SORT OF STRANGE WAY TO RELAX, ISN'T IT?

FLEXING MUSCLES at the recreation commission sponsored Keep-Fit classes is a feat fit for feminine forms of some stamina. After an arduous session of one-two-three bending classmates take time out for a bit of pattern-perfect leisure that would keep showman Billy Rose th[illegible].

Keep-Fit Classes A Success

Introduction of planned recreation for city of Edmonton three years ago spelt the way to promotion of "Keep-Fit" classes.

Trained dancing teachers, physical training experts volunteered to supervise and build a program of exercise, dance and tumbling for men, women and children interested in keeping fit.

System has since multiplied rapidly in scope, results and opportunities for better health of Edmonton citizens.

People of all ages, all sizes, flock to regularly held classes to enjoy exercises, folk dancing instruction, rhythm-developing routines and health [illegible].

Classes have spread to every available gymnasium and hall . . . churches, schools, community centres, even a hospital and the Navy barracks are settings for the muscle-flexing sessions.

New Unmentionables Promised in March

By Bea Thrifty

Beneath that bustle ma'am is the foundation of figure success.

'Tis the girdle I'm referring to . . . or that iron-bound unmentionable which controls those extra pounds. And all this nonsense leads to a hot dispatch from the lingerie designers . . . about nylon.

Nylon news gives out with the word that better 'n better things are in store for we garter-girls. Seems nylon will be available in a two-way stretch job come the merry month of March . . . or April.

* * *

Forecast for trousseau success is a pretty little pantie-girdle which looks lacey 'n lovely . . . but does a fine job of trimming the figure to svelte proportions as well.

These will sell at a price hovering at the $6.50 mark . . . and are noted for their wearever quality.

* * *

More in unmentionables will give a wider selection in nylon bras, nylon combo-fabrics for all types of lingerie.

The delightful business about easy laundering is another honor going to nylon lingerie. Ironing just won't enter into the picture at all.

* * *

And into men's wear, there's a nylon news item which generates untold enthusiasm among we gals who slave over a hot ol' ironing board with husband's starched shirts.

Seems the upcoming advent of nylon shirts will dispense with all that form of slave-labor.

Collars will need a wee bit of straightening out . . . special stays are designed to help this end of things . . . but the rest of the shirt will be merely hung on a hanger to dry . . . and then is ready for wearing . . . Ah those hours of toil . . . those blisters on the ironing hand . . . those burns . . . those bad word white broadcloth shirts!

* * *

This ironing palaver brings to mind the spring-time chatter about pure silk as fashion-first on the fabric parade.

Pure silk is delightfully crease-resistant, light washable and printed in a gay muster of pretty patterns for this year's [illegible] shopper.

* * *

By-the-yard pure silk fabric has not arrived on the scene but dress-shop buyers promise great things in their initial showings. Cool fresh-looking it's a winner indeed.

And prices are slated for a normalized curve bending at one end to a $17.95 range and at the other well into the $100 bracket of course . . . if you're interested in that.

Milady's millinery is blossoming in shop show-windows . . . and that's about as far as spring has advanced this year.

Speaking of spring is a bitter reminder about the blustery weather . . . and my various complaints re same.

But I have one thing to be thankful for . . . my busy-as-a-bee grandmother took time out to knit a pair of toast-warm mittens to soothe the poor frost-bitten fingers.

Always said mittens were far warmer than gloves . . . and what place vanity when comfort is at stake?

DOROTHY DIX SAYS

Practical Marriage Can Bring Happiness

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a business woman of 30. I am alone in the world. I earn a salary that enables me to live comfortably, but not to lay up much for the future.

A man whom I respect and admire very much but with whom I am not in love wants to marry me. We have much the same background and for many years have been congenial friends.

He can offer me the things I can never get for myself. Do you think that a marriage without thrills and without any deep feeling would bring me happiness?

ARLINE

ANSWER: Being of a sentimental nature, I always feel that nothing but love can make marriage worth while.

But all of us have seen boys and girls marry on a tidal wave of passion that broke against the rocks of matrimony and receded, leaving them stranded on the shores of the divorce court.

Even love cannot stand a basic lack of congeniality nor common purpose. Nor can it survive coldness, nor neglect, nor unkindness, nor selfishness. Nor always does it survive poverty.

MAY BE SAFER BET

It is because love does not guarantee the happiness of a marriage that the marriage of convenience often seems a safer bet. In that, at least, one makes one's choice with one's head instead with one's heart and one is guided by reason instead of emotion.

Financial considerations that seem so trifling in romantic courting days and that are so all-important when household bills come in have their appointed place in the marriage of convenience and help to make the domestic machine run on oiled wheels.

Another factor in the success of the marriage of convenience is that the woman who is not blinded by infatuation is better capable of estimating a man's real worth and deciding if he measures up to her standards and suits her tastes.

She knows really how much they have in common. Furthermore, she is less critical and faultfinding with the man whom she merely likes than she is of the one whom she loves, because it is the curse of love that it demands perfection of its god.

And she is saved from all the pangs of jealousy that tear at the heart of the woman who is crazy about her husband.

England's King Henry III is said to have chosen a grain of corn from the middle of the ear as the standard of weight.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

Threats are Useless In Controlling Child

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

Theats, threats, threats! No wonder children grow deaf to them. They swarm about them like bees and chiefly they are all buzz and no sting.

A child of six reached toward a lamp in a doctor's office and said, "I am going to turn off the light." Quick as a flash his slightly older sister said, "If you do, I'll spank you."

Now where did she hear that? No doubt, that's the way her mother attempts to keep these children in line. "Don't do it, or I'll spank you!"

If a parent fulfilled all of these idle threats she would do little else. Children are always getting into mischief and misbehaving. Sometimes it is better to ignore it, if no harm is done. Had the small boy turned off the light he would have turned it on again quickly and no one would have been the worse for it.

Children need to be told what is forbidden, and they know as well as the parents when they have acted wrongly. If they have and the action merits punishment they punish. Threatening them to prevent misbehavior only incites them to test the parent's tolerance for misbehavior. They keep acting worse and worse, trying to discover at what point she will break down and actually do as she said she would. Nothing could be worse from the standpoint of good behavior or the parent's role in it.

If a parent says, "Please don't do that," she is asking a favor and she may feel sorry if a child fails to grant it. If she says, "You may not do that," then obviously the child may not, if his parent really means what she says. She doesn't have to erect the barb wire fence of a threat. If the child knows the parent means what she says, then he will know that he may not do this particular thing.

If the parent has threatened no other punishment, she is a free agent. She can act as she pleases. Once she utters a threat she is duty bound to fulfill it—which she may not wish to do—or she has undermined her authorities and nullified all future threats.

Our leaflet No. 74, "Undesirable Punishments," may be had by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of this newspaper.

A Fake Tortoise Shell Box As Your New Handbag

If Santa Claus did not bring you one of the new fake tortoise shell box-bags, you really should treat yourself to one. I think these are the gayest and most amusing bag fashion in a long while.

There are all sorts of shapes in these plastic boxes and slim vanities as well. They are smartest in tortoise shell or in clear lucite if you want to show off your pretty handbag accessories. I also like them in polished black to carry with patent leather shoes.

And if you are lucky enough to be going south, you can choose a light color—white, red, yellow, coral, jade green or butterscotch.

Leona Elsie Ruth Law Weds Roger Gregor Sund

In a recent evening ceremony at McDougall United Church, Leona Elsie Ruth Law exchanged vows with Roger Greger Sund. Rev. Wesley Bainbridge officiated.

The bride, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Law, was given in marriage by her father [illegible] the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ottar Sund, all of Edmonton.

White satin fashioned the bride's traditional wedding [illegible] which was made with a sweetheart neckline and a full skirt cascading to a long train. Headdress of [illegible] orange blossoms caught her finger tip veil of [illegible]

CARRIES PRAYER BOOK

She carried a white prayer book with orchid and sweetheart rose streamers.

As the bride's only attendant, Miss Sonja Winquist wore a frock and Dutch cap of blue taffeta. Her blending bouquet was of pink carnations and deep blue iris.

Rudolph Sund was his brother's best man, and the guests were ushered by Roy Samuelson and Kervyn Sedgewick.

Accompanied by Eleanor Forman, Miss Hokanson sang "Because" during the signing of the register.

Uncle Wiggily's Bedtime Story

By HOWARD R. GARIS

Bunty the orphan rabbit didn't pop out of the soap box sled as Jelly Bean had done. Bunty kept her place in the box and she came sliding down to the bottom of the hill in back of Jackie Bow Wow.

On Bunty's sled, which he had borrowed, Jackie came in ahead of Buster who was coasting on his own sled.

"Ha! Ha! I win the race!" barked Jackie.

"No Buster," spoke Bunty, "Jackie didn't win the race. "Jelly Bean won."

"Jelly Bean won the race? Ha! Ha! You're funny, Bunty! How do you make out that Jelly Bean won the race?"

"Didn't you say, Jackie, that whoever first reached the bottom of the hill would win the race? Didn't you, Jackie?"

"Sure, it's the way in all race. Whoever gets there first wins."

"Well, who was at the bottom of the hill first. Buster Longear

"I guess Jelly Bean was first, but he didn't get to the bottom of the hill first in his sled!" shouted Buster. "Jackie did that. On his sled Jackie was first at the bottom of the hill."

"Nothing was said about getting to the bottom of the hill first on a sled," spoke Bunty, still sweet and low. "Jackie said, that whoever reached the bottom of the hill first would win the race. And Jelly Bean was first."

"Well — er — but Jelly Bean bounced out of his sled!" shouted Jackie.

"But I think Jelly Bean won the first race," barked Jackie. "He was first at the bottom of the hill."

"Oh, well, all right," agreed Buster. "But this is the first time I ever say anybody win a race by bouncing out of his sled. Let's go back up hill and have another race'"

Just as they were starting up the hill, pulling their sleds, there was a sudden noise in the bushes. Out popped Eenie the fierce Wolverine

"Oh, golly! Let's run so Eenie won't scratch us!" screamed Bunty.

But that brave little pig, Jelly Bean, quickly made a hard snowball. He threw it at Eenie and the snowball hit the wolverine on his soft and tender nose.

"Oh, wow! Wow! Wow!" howled Eenie and away he ran over the snow

"You are very brave, Jelly Bean." said Buster

COVERS THE WORLD

Light of Learning Lit By Edmonton Missionary

By Barney McKinley
Bulletin Staff Writer

A small inspired lamp of learning, kindled over a century ago in the territory where Edmonton now stands, is beginning this month to shed its light on the primitive tribes of Africa.

The small lamp is the simple syllabus to give written form to the Cree language invented in 1840 by Dr. James Evans, pioneer missionary from England.

NOW USED WIDELY

On its way to the dark continent and the freeing of more millions of native peoples from the bonds of illiteracy the syllabus reached over 1,000 native peoples from the Philippines to Ethiopia, from New Guinea to Siam, who never before had enjoyed a written language of their own.

Dr. Evans reached Edmonton in 1840. Earlier he had been named superintendent of the Wesleyan Methodist Mission for Rupert's Land, requested and financed by the Hudson's Bay Company.

Both the syllabus and Bible were destined to circle the globe together in the century ahead.

The syllabus consisted of twelve symbols, borrowed mainly, from the new-fangled Pitman shorthand then coming into use.

SYMBOLS

The symbols represented syllables of the native language rather than letters. By altering the position of the symbol you got another syllable.

Since its invention no native race has failed to see the point.

Dr. Evans had no type to print his new language. He made it out of the lead from tea case linings and bullets. He made a wooden press do. He had no paper, so he used birch bark.

A few years after he had started his syllabus on its enlightening way Dr. Evans died. But his work kept right on spreading, and finally, in recent years, mushrooming.

Somewhere along the line, toward the end of the century the syllabus took a jump to China when missionary Sam Pollard turned to the back page of a Cree New Testament and found some of the symbols he needed to provide a simple written language for unlettered Orientals.

By 1929 the British and Foreign Bible Society estimated that 800 different peoples had been given a written language where none had existed before.

Fewer From U.S. Visit Canada; More Fly Here

OTTAWA, Jan. 28. — (CP) — Travellers between the United States and Canada are taking to the air

Fewer Americans are coming to Canada by bus, automobile and train. But in the first 10 months of 1949, the number coming here by air increased by 18.3 per cent compared with the same period of 1948.

The Bureau of Statistics reported that in the 10 months ended last Oct. 31, 119,288 travellers from the U.S. used air services to cross the border. In the similar period of 1948, such travellers numbered 100,774

In the first 10 months of 1949, there were 481,596 American travellers who entered Canada by rail—a sharp drop from the 512,866 entering in 1948.

Americans entering by bus totalled 397,318 compared with 456,206, while coming by boat were 295,253 against 328,171 n the same period of 1948.

Public Co-operation Seen To Further Health Aims

Public co-operation in furthering aims of National Health Week was asked today of Albertans by Hon. Dr. W. W. Cross, minister of public health for Alberta.

Dr. Cross said:

"National health week which is sponsored by the Health League of Canada, is being observed from Jan. 2 to Feb. 4th, and serves an important purpose in focussing the attention of all Canadians on health which is the most fundamental of all our great resources. Without health, none of our resources can mean much to us either as individuals, as a province or as a nation

PREAMBLE

"In the preamble to the constitution of the world health organization, health is defined as "a state of complete physical mental and social well-being, and not merely the absence of disease or infirmity."

"The enjoyment of the highest attainable standard of health is one of the fundamental rights of every human being without distinction of race, religion, political belief, economic or social condition."

SECURITY

"The health of all peoples is fundamental to the attainment of peace and security and is dependent upon the fullest co-operation of individuals and states."

"The achievements in the prevention and control of disease and in the lengthening of the span of life during the first half of the 20th century have been remarkable and point the way to still greater triumphs in the last half of this century, providing we press forward an unrelenting attack on all fronts against the foes of health. In this campaign in which our objective is a full measure of health for all, the fullest co-operation of all our people is essential."

Wheat Storage Denied To U.S. In East Canada

WINNIPEG, Jan. 28. — (CP) — The Canadian Wheat Board has announced that permits for import of United States grain for storage in eastern Canada elevators will be withheld "until further notice."

The board said the step is necessary because of the large quantities of western grains which will be moved from the Lakehead to the east with the opening of navigation, and because of the substantial stocks of U.S grains now in store in eastern positions.

However, the board will consider applications for provisional permits to import U.S. grain which will be sold for prompt re-export or for U.S. grain for current consumption in eastern Canada.

Few Basic Rules Keep People Healthy, Happy

Health is a most prized possession and is closely bound up with happiness, yet many go on cheerfully ignoring the simple but basic things they may do to protect good health, Dr. G. M. Little, Edmonton's medical health officer, pointed out today.

Referring to benefits to be derived from National Health Week, he said it always seems "necessary to remind our people that preservation of good health lies, to a considerable extent, in their own hands."

NEW FIELDS

Both city and provincial health departments are finding new and useful fields demanding expansion of their efforts; but it is beyond the ability of the health department, for instance, to see that the individual gets the amount of sleep which nature demands for body repair, he pointed out.

"We procide effective protection against certain dangerous communicable diseases, but this is of little avail to those who do not bring their children to our inoculation clinic Sanitary control, along with an increasing sense of responsibility among restaurant proprietors, provides a safety in public eating places which was largely missing only a few years ago; but we cannot control the handling of foodstuffs by the housewife and it is from homes that we have most of our cases of food poisoning reported today," he said.

It seems obvious, then, that every citizen may do much to maintain the assurance of good health by giving even a little intelligent thought to this problem, and if he will keep in mind the services provided by his health department and use them he can add a good deal to that assurance Dr. Little continued.

PREVAILS

In some directions such co-operation does prevail and where this is so the dividends are very great. Last year the attendance at Edmonton's baby and pre-school clinic was [illegible]. It is obvious that mothers are determined that this younger group shall have proper health supervision, he said.

"We believe that this is responsible in considerable part for the fact that our city has one of the lowest infant mortality rates on this continent," Dr. Little continued.

Attendance at our inoculation clinic for 1949 was 24,762. Mothers have been quick to grasp the possibility of removing the threat of serious communicable disease which constantly hangs over the unprotected child. This in effect has permitted the wiping out of smallpox altogether since [illegible].

Diphtheria has been almost entirely eliminated. Last year there were only two cases of this disease and no Edmonton case has died from this cause since [illegible].

Whooping cough which in recent years has caused more deaths than diphtheria, scarlet fever and [illegible] all put together and which in the past has caused as many as 1,200 cases in a single year is being steadily overcome. Last year there were only [illegible] cases of the disease in Edmonton.

SUPERVISION

"Sanitary supervision of foodstuffs has practically eliminated such disease as typhoid fever. We have had only one case of typhoid in our city during the past three years, and that case acquired the disease beyond our borders. Likewise, milk sanitation has largely stopped our illness and death from milk-borne disease," he said.

"I do wish to make the point that to derive full benefit from these services requires the intelligent co-operation of our citizens. With a healthy community as our objective, we would ask citizens to give a little thought to such personal problems as sufficient sleep, diet, clothing and food-handling in the home," he said.

The Norwegian explorer, Roald Amundsen, was the first to take a ship from the Atlantic to the Pacific through the Arctic Ocean, at the beginning of the present century.

Trade Train To U.S. Proposed

OTTAWA, Jan. 28.—(CP)—The Canadian Chamber of Commerce has suggested a Canadian trade train be sent on a tour through the United States.

The train would carry a wide variety of Canadian products and salesmen to tell Americans about the products produced in this country.

"The whole thing is still very much in the preliminary stage," a Chamber official said today.

If enough industries, business organizations, boards of trade and chambers of commerce throughout the country are interested, the Canadian chamber will sponsor the project.

The Columbia River is 1,400 miles long.

Future Objective For Health Week

Canada's governor general, Viscount Alexander of Tunis, in a message to the Canadian people strongly endorses the long-term objectives inherent in the observance of National Health Week, which begins today.

"In my capacity as patron of the Health League of Canada, I commend to you the advice which will thus be offered to everyone during the course of this particular week with a view to maintaining at the highest possible level, the health of our people," said His Excellency.

OPPORTUNITIES

"Opportunities to keep physically fit are available in abundance to Canadians.

"Encouragement will be given during National Health Week for the observation of simple rules for the preservation of individual, communal and national health.

The governor-general observed that much progress had been made during the first half century toward the preventation of diseases and maintenance of health.

Individuals, he said, could assist themselves and greatly quicken the objectives of National Health Week by observing the common simple rules of health not only for and during the week but throughout the year, and years to follow.

CHOP CLOTHES OFF BATHER AT 32 BELOW

FORTFRANCES, Ont., Jan. 28—(CP)—John Williams of Crilly, Ont., was fished out of the Lower Rainy river yesterday while the temperature hovered about 32 degrees below zero.

He is suffering from exposure but is "in reasonably good condition," the hospital said today.

The trapper was heard shouting from a hole in the river ice.

Williams' clothes had to be literally chopped away from his body.

Cattle Losses In Cold Normal

CALGARY, Alta., Jan. 28—(BUP)—The editor of a cattlemens' publication says that only normal cattle lossses have been reported so far this winter, cold as it has been.

Editor Kenneth R. Coppock of Canadian Cattlemen says that he has no reports of excessive losses. Coppock says that "every winter, from one to five per cent of the cattle die. That's what makes our animals good—survival of the fittest."

Judge Is Chosen Of May Festival

SARNIA, Ont., Jan. 28.—(CP)—Michel St. Denis, noted British actor, playwright, director and producer, will judge the cream of Canada's acting talent at the 1950 Dominion Drama Festival in Calgary the week of May 8.

D. Park Jameson, festival chairman, announced here that Mr. St. Denis has accepted an invitation to be adjudicator at the festival finals.

He promised that Mr. St. Denis would find a big improvement over what he saw when he judged the finals in Ottawa in 1937.

That year the festival was confined to one act plays. This year, for the first time, only full-length plays will be produced.

In the United States, about 40,000,000,000 pounds of skim milk, buttermilk, and whey are not utilized as human food the Ohio agricultural experiment station reports.

Death Rate Down From Old Scourge

Scientific Medicine Biggest Aid in Curbing Disease

Over the past quarter century Canadian death rates have fallen markedly through discoveries in the field of scientific medicine and their resulting influence on higher standards of health.

Some diseases which were known as scourges no more than 25 years ago now are either completely or partially under control.

RATES

Tuberculosis incidence and death rates, as well as typhoid fever, scarlet fever, diphtheria and whooping cough have fallen dramatically in that period of time.

Infant and maternal deaths are on the downgrade, and smallpox has just about disappeared.

In 1924 there were 1,280 deaths in Canada from diphtheria.

In 1948 there were 85 from that disease.

DANGEROUS

Medical authorities warn, however, that it is dangerous to become complacent about the general national health picture.

There still are a number of baffling problems that medical science has not yet been able to solve.

For instance, the attack on cancer has only begun. Arthritis is similarily placed while venereal disease still constitutes a significant problem.

The long crusading Health League of Canada, prime mover of voluntary organizations promoting health consciousness, contends that there is still an urgent need for corrective influences in industrial and vocational conditions.

After research throughout Canada the League says "more attention needs to be paid to the health of industrial workers by both management and the workers themselves."

HEARTY EATERS

It points out also that it is possible for a person to eat huge meals with gusto and yet suffer certain forms of starvation due to poorly balanced diet.

"There is much need for research and education in the field of nutrition," the League states.

Poliomyelitis (infantile paralysis) is another problem which must be solved, while even the common cold still has humanity baffled.

Medical science and health workers generally still have much to do and that is why such events as National Health Week, sponsored annually by the Health League of Canada, and the nation's Gold Cross Association, are necessary.

National Health Week this year is from Jan. 29 to Feb. 4 inclusive.

On The Farm

By Pat McVean

So you think you've got troubles?

Sure, the farm market prospects are none too bright, and the feed shortage looks like it's going to be serious, and it's so cold every trip to the barn assumes the proportions of "operation Arctic," but here's a fellow whose lot in life isn't happy, either . . .

He's a "garden specialist"—one of the fellows we call "researchers" who dope out the latest developments in farm and garden products.

TRIES A MELON

According to reports, he was working on a new type of garden melon intended to ripen in one of the northern United States where summer is over in about two-and-a-half months.

The melon he finally raised was fine for that state—but then he began to see a broader field for it. He thought that this was just the type of fruit to be grown in Texas.

Texans, he argued, could plant the melon in February, harvest it in April and cash in on the high-priced early-season market.

Texas gardeners tried out the melon with great enthusiasm—only to find that unpredictably it took 250 days after planting before it ripened.

MELON IS A MELON

That stumped the researcher but only temporarily.

He shipped the melon off to Puerto Rico, and there, planters found, it ripened splendidly.

Just one thing the matter with it: instead of growing nice and plump as it originally grew in the northern states it became long as your arm and just about as round.

So now the researcher's researching at home—and not with melons.

* * *

And speaking of the feed shortage which threatens, you can cut down on winter feed bills and curtail supplies without cutting into milk-and-cream income if you:

Get rid of cows that are stingy with their milk and feed the good cows more.

See that the animals get shelter and warm water on these cold, stormy days;

Feed more hay, and less grain;

Feed medium ground feed, and save the money you would have spent to grind the feed and give the animals more nourishment than they would get from whole grain.

Feed feed in proportion to the amount of milk each animal gives rather than wasting extra large quantities of feed on poor producers.

Feathers, Eggs Are Weapons Of Jealous Wife

Exclusive to The Bulletin

BURLINGTON, Vt., Jan. 28—(BUP)—The jealous wife of a stamp collector paid $43.45 for beaning a postmistress with a bag of feathers and eggs.

Postmistress Sylvia Warren appeared at the state attorney's office last August dripping with raw eggs and chicken feathers and charged that she had been attacked by Mrs. W. H. Abercrombie, 67.

Miss Warren said she believed Mrs. Abercrombie was jealous because she had attended several stamp club meetings with her husband.

Mrs. Abercrombie at first denied the charge, but changed her plea when she was arrainged. She was fined $15 and costs totaling $28.45 by municipal judge Bernard Lisman yesterday.

Foot Care Will Prevent Many Health Problems

There are a thousand and one things to which a person's imagination may attribute their condition of general low vitality but too few look for the cause in their feet.

Polite health authorities seldom publicly chide society for being dirty, but rather dress up the offensive term with positive phrases pertaining to cleanliness and hygiene.

Just plain dirty feet can be an important drain on even the most rugged constitution, forthright health officials say.

If this were not true the Canadian Army would not have had regular foot inspection parades and strict regulations regarding personal care of the feet—as important to an infantryman as his eyes.

NEGLECT

Yet it cannot successfully be denied that in the complex body of the human organism there is widespread neglect of the feet, as any shoe salesman will testify on a hot day in a crowded store.

Much can be done to uplift an individual's flagging energy through the liberal and frequent employment of hot water, soap, brush, scissors, clean socks (or hose), and change to dry, well-fitting foot wear.

Liberal means more than just a dip. It means a soaking and softening of accumulated dead skin and callus formation, with preference to daily footbaths and care.

It is estimated that eight out of 10 adults have foot troubles and studies indicate that 85 per cent of the trouble can be prevented before the feet have completed their growth and development.

EDUCATION

Foot health education should begin at an early age.

Nearly all children are born with perfect feet but by the time they reach their first birthday eight per cent have developed foot defects.

This increases to 22 per cent in the child's second year, and 41 per cent by the time the child is five years old.

The number of foot defects increases to more than 50 per cent in the average youngster of 10.

A child will wake nights complaining of aching knees or legs and this quite frequently has been traced to imprisonment of the youngster's feet in ill-fitting shoes.

Foot health depends on well-fitting shoes, good posture, good walking habits and the all-important cardinal rule of regular and frequent attention with soap and water.

Properly fitted footwear all throughout a child's growing years is not only vitally important to healthy foot development—it is absolutely imperative.

First aliens to be naturalized under Australia's Nationality and Citizenship Act, in February, 1949 were seven persons of different nationality representing the six states and the colonial territories.

'Strad' Made in Japan

KNOXVILLE, Tenn.—(UP)—"Stradivarius" violins have become a glut on the market in East Tennessee. An article in the Knoxville Journal about one such fiddle marked "Stradivarius" brought a flood of letters from owners of similarly-marked instruments. One writer had a violin with the name of Antonio Stradivari, but it also bore the words "Made in Japan" in fine print.

Barter With Spain, Is Urged by Envoy

Canadian's Advice Indicates Change in Ottawa Viewpoint

By J. E. Bird
Exclusive to the Bulletin

OTTAWA, Jan. 28.—(BUP)—Canada, which traditionally frowned on bilateral exchange deals, was urged by a newly-named trade commissioner today to exchange goods with Spain.

Edward H. Macquire, scheduled to sail from New York Feb. 7 as Canada's first trade commissioner to Madrid, said such an arrangement would bolster the flow of goods between the two countries.

His views were strongly at variance with those often expressed by Trade Minister C. D. Howe in the past, and indicated a possible switch in administrative policy. Howe had said that deals in which Canada might exchange goods for goods instead of for money would not pay in the long run.

BARTER SUGGESTED

Macquire recalled that Canada had been getting the short end of trade with Spain each year since 1935. The unfavorable balance showed that in the first 10 months of 1949, for example, Canada sent Spain exports worth only $313,804 but bought $1,864,765 worth of goods from the Spanish.

Macquire said barter arrangements might be one way of making it possible for Spain to increase her Canadian purchases. Such an arrangement would help overcome a major problem—shortage of American dollars—that had limited Spanish buying in this country.

Spanish purchases of Canadian automobiles, for instance, were not possible at present because Canada demanded, and Spain lacked, American dollars in payment. Macquire thought this situation might be changed if some barter arrangements could be brought about.

SPAIN LACKS DOLLARS

"A shortage of U.S. dollars is the limiting factor all the way through on Spanish purchases in Canada," Macquire said.

"Spain could use a wide range of Canadian goods, but doesn't have the necessary dollars. The question now is to find ways and means of permitting a heavy volume of trade and barter schemes—and that might be one method," he said.

Macquire said Canada felt Spain could considerably boost its purchases of Canadian goods, including food, railway rolling stock, machinery and other capital goods. He said prices of these capital goods were competitive with prices charged by other countries.

A major effort would also be made to increase the volume of material that Canada now sends to Spain, he said.

NOTICE

TAKE NOTICE that an application will be made at the next session of the Alberta legislature for an Act to incorporate The Northern Alberta Jockey Club for the purpose of improving the breeding of thoroughbred horses in the Province and promoting the physical and social welfare of its members.

DATED at Edmonton, Alberta, this 14th day of January, 1950.

Canada's Exports Show Drop On Most of World Markets

OTTAWA, Jan. 28—(CP)—In the face of tightening world markets, Canada's total exports dropped slightly last year.

But exports to the vital United States market were the highest in history—$1,503,459,000 compared with $1,500,000,000 in 1948 and nearly seven times more than in 1938.

Total exports were $2,993,000,000, compared with $3,075,000,000 in 1948 and $837,600,000 in 1938, the Bureau of Statistics reported today.

Total import figures for the year have not yet been compiled. For the first 11 months of the year imports were $2,547,800,000.

A sharp drop, however, was reported for exports in December. They were valued at $285,500,000 compared with $316,400,000.

Exports were higher to the United Kingdom and Latin America, but lower to Europe.

Biggest export group was wood and wood products, valued at $875,300,000, a drop from $953,700,000 the year before. Exports of farm products were higher, reaching $773,000,000 compared with $643,700,000.

FOLLOWS DEVALUATION

The Bureau reported that much of the increase in exports to the U.S. occurred in the last two months of the year, after devaluation of the Canadian dollar. But late in the year, however, exports dropped to other markets.

Sales to Britain were $704,956,000, an increase from $686,914,000 in 1949.

To other commonwealth countries, exports were $300,815,000, compared with $290,431,000 in 1948. There was a sharp drop in December exports to commonwealth countries, but totals were kept at high levels by a few "exceptional" sales such as wheat and railway equipment to India and South Africa.

$5,000 GRANT AUTHORIZED

TORONTO—Grant of $5,000 to help finance missionary projects of the Methodist Missionary Society of London, England, along the coast north of Panama has been made by United Church of Canada. The grant was made from funds on hand for the relief of Protestant churches in Europe.

Chinese Liaison Office Planned

HONG KONG.—Chinese Christians plan to set up a national office in Peking to serve the interests of Christian churches and organizations and to act as liaison agency between them and the Communist government.

The government already has created a Commission on Religious Affairs within the Ministry of Internal Affairs, headed by a graduate of St. John's University.

OIL

Bigger Oil Demand In U.S. Forecast

By C. V. Myers
Bulletin Oil Editor

A slight increase in the demand for all petroleum products in the United States in 1950 is predicted by the annual review and forecast issue of the Oil and Gas Journal, published at Tulsa, Okla.

The publication forecasts that the demand in 1950 will average 6,941,000 barrels per day, an increase of 5.7 per cent over 1949, when consumption averaged 6,140,270 barrels daily.

The Journal also predicted that activity in the American oil industry will continue as high as in 1949. There will be a slight decline in the number of wells drilled, but exploration and wildcatting for new fields will be about the same, it predicts.

The publication also forecast that there will be a decline in the construction program for natural gas.

Exports, it says, will decline, and imports will increase.

The journal estimates that reserves of known recoverable oil in the ground in the U.S. totals 28,586 million barrells—the highest in history.

AT REDWATER

Imperial completed another of its development wells, its 113th, and its 12th since the start of the year.

The new well is Amelia No. 34, drilled in lsd 10 of 10-57-21w4th. It was swabbed in at total depth 3,226 feet and is now waiting to establish an initial potential.

Imperial also established potentials at two more of its previous completions in the field. They are Egremont No. 29 and Redwater No. 55. The Egremont 29, completed at 3,296 feet, was tested for four hours, during which time it flowed at the rate of 750 barrels daily. Redwater No. 55, at 3,306 feet, rated a potential of 1,320 barrels per day when flowed into a tank on the lease for one hour, but went dead when turned into a long flow line.

Livestock

EDMONTON, Jan. 28—Total receipts for this week: cattle 1,448, calves 222, hogs 1,913, sheep 19.

The Edmonton cattle market opened the weeks trading somewhat unsettled. Transportation difficulties cancelled all coast orders and reduced the normal outlet in that direction. Early sales were definitely lower with commission salesmen striving hard to hold the market steady with eastern orders. The severe cold weather and very light mid-week receipts eased the tension. Demand broadened and local buyers entered the trade. Prices settled down on an even keel with quotations about steady to slightly easier than the previous week's close.

Veal calves quoted at 22.00-24.00 for good handyweights, with odd choice lightweights up to 25.00.

Stockers and feeders are in good demand at firm values, good feeder steers 17.00-19.00, short keeps 19.00-20.50. Stock heifers bringing 14.00-16.00, and stock cows 11.00-13.00.

Hogs firm under short supply, grade A for local slaughter bringing 24.00, sows 12.00 and stags 9.00 liveweight. Feeder hogs quoted at 15.00-17.00.

There were insufficient sheep and lambs on sale to make a market. Quotations steady to firm, good handyweights bring 21.00-22.00 off trucks and 22.00-23.00 off cars. Market ewes quoted at 4.00-9.00.

Choice fed calves	21.00 to 22.00
Choice steers	21.50 to 22.00
Good steers	[illegible] to 21.50
Medium steers	19.50 to 20.50
Common steers	16.00 to 18.00
Choice heifers	18.50 to 19.00
Good heifers	18.00 to 18.50
Medium heifers	17.00 to 17.50
Common heifers	14.00 to 16.00
Good cows	15.00 to 15.50
Medium cows	14.00 to 15.00
Common cows	11.00 to 13.50
Bulls	15.00 to 17.50
Canners and cutters	9.00 to 12.50
